Complete Unit

Army Vocational School for City

A vocational training school for three classes of mechanic recruits, joining the Canadian Active Army, will be opened in Edmonton on May 15, it was learned Wednesday.

The school, which will operate as a complete unit of the Vocational Training Wing of M.D. 13, will have an instructional and administrative staff of 150 and will be under the command of Capt. J. L. Stone, military vocational training officer, now at M.D. 13 headquarters in Calgary.

Although staff and enlisted personnel will be quartered at the Prince of Wales armory, classes will be held in the Edmonton Technical school.

Capt. Stone is a former Edmonton resident who was employed by the provincial government before the present war started.

He is a veteran of the first Great War, having served with the 49th Bn. (Edmonton Regiment), C.E.F. He had served as vocational training officer in Edmonton prior to a transfer to Calgary some months ago.

Classes at the Technical school will be for motor mechanics, electricians and blacksmiths.

The new school with the training staff will mean a considerable increase in the personnel of the Canadian Active Army stationed in Edmonton.

War's Biggest Bomber Force Raids Dortmund

Single, Married Men Are Affected

Registration Ordered for Labor Transfer

Threaten to Isolate Garrison

American, French Units 10 Miles From Bizerte

OTTAWA, May 5—(CP)—The Dominion government last night ordered single men between the ages of 19 and 40 and married men between the ages of 19 and 25 in some 20 non-essential industries or occupations to register by May 19 for possible transfer to essential industry.

The sweeping order is expected to make available for essential work thousands of men not already in the armed forces.

The order, issued by Labor Minister Mitchell, did not specify essential industries other than agriculture, but it was presumed that plants engaged on war-essential production would be chiefly concerned.

SIMILAR ORDERS LATER

Similar orders will be issued later, dealing with other non-essential employments, said Mr. Mitchell in the departmental statement.

The first order covers men employed in the following industries or establishments:

(1) Taverns or liquor, wine and beer stores;

(2) Retail sale of candy, confectionery, tobacco, books, stationery, or news (magazines and newspapers);

(3) Barber shops and beauty parlors;

(4) Retail and wholesale florists;

(5) Service stations (by which are meant gasoline-filling stations);

(6) Retail sale of motor vehicles or accessories;

(7) Retail sale of sporting goods or musical instruments.

In addition, said the departmental statement, all men designated under mobilization regulations are

Soviet Mission

Report Davies To Plan F.D.R., Stalin Meeting

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—The New York Times says in a dispatch from Washington that Joseph E. Davies will leave today on a second "Mission to Moscow" as a special representative of President Roosevelt to propose to Premier Joseph Stalin a meeting between the heads of the two governments.

The Times said the information was "Learned definitely on authority that is not open to question," although no comment was made at the White House.

EXTEND INVITATION

Davies and Stalin will discuss problems pertaining both to the war and post-war plans, but the most important aspect of Davies' visit will be to extend to Stalin an invitation to meet with the president for a discussion of questions of mutual interest, the Times said.

No details were available, according to the Times, on where the proposed conference might take place and it was not clear whether it might involve a trip to Moscow by the President.

The Times said it was definitely known that the President was proposing a meeting between the two alone, but that it was possible the invitation might be broadened to include Prime Minister Churchill.

Davies, ambassador to the Soviet Union from 1936 to 1938, is known as a staunch friend and ardent champion of Premier Stalin and the Soviet Union.

Russians Drive New Offensive At Novorossisk

MOSCOW, May 5.—Soviet artillery wiped out nearly 1,000 enemy troops and destroyed four tanks and 21 guns in one sector alone today as the Russians pressed a new offensive northeast of the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk.

(The Germans acknowledged the evacuation of Krymskaya, 17 miles northeast of Novorossisk, and said the Red army was attacking with as many as 90 to 100 tanks in a narrow sector of the Caucasus front.

(A Vichy broadcast said Soviet landing craft were approaching the southern tip of the Axis bridgehead in the northwest Caucasus under heavy aerial bombardment. Some troops already have disembarked south of Novorossisk, the broadcast said.)

NAZI LOSSES HEAVY

Fierce battles were raging northeast of Novorossisk, the Soviet high command said, and the Red army was inflicting "heavy losses" in men and equipment on the enemy in a determined effort to wipe

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, May 5.—(AP)—A large Tunis-bound Axis munitions ship was blown up, and an escorting torpedo boat was sunk by light Allied naval force Monday night, an Allied headquarters communique announced today.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, May 5.—American infantry and armor closed to within ten miles of Bizerte naval base and captured Eddekhila on the north, central Tunisian front today in drives that threatened to isolate the entire Axis garrison at Bizerte from main enemy defence lines before Tunis.

Two desperate German counterattacks were turned back Tuesday by the Americans in the north and the British First army in the centre, where 12 or 14 of 17 attacking Nazi tanks were knocked out, but front dispatches indicated fighting generally was more in the nature of a rear-guard delaying action, especially in the Mateur-Bizerte sector.

The American and French patrols north of Mateur gained control of a key road junction west of Lake Dizerte, pushing up the west slope of Djebel Chemti and attacking Djebel Achkel on the far south side of Lake Achkel. These gains dominated the road junction northwest of Lake Bizerte and threatened the Ferryville junction southwest of the same lake, on the main road to Tunis. The enemy, however, still has a second road into Bizerte to Tunis, running east of the lake.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE

American troops also captured Eddekhila, six miles west of Tebourba on the central front, soon after dawn today, according to British United Press dispatches, which said that the German infantry had bombed Mateur and attacked a nearby bridge yesterday.

The capture of Eddekhila was important because it was part of a drive with the British First Army designed to crack the enemy mountain defences along the edge of the Tunis plain.

The Germans had withdrawn 13 miles eastward from Hill 609 to high ground around Eddekhila where the Americans attacked quickly in an effort to prevent the enemy from swinging his defences northward against American army armored units based on Mateur.

Advances on all important sectors of the last enemy-held mountain barriers west of Tunis were reported, with the French gaining two miles in the area southeast of Pont du Fahs and the British First Army only about 20 miles from the Tunisian capital after knocking out 12 more Nazi tanks and probably destroying two others.

Loan Passes Half-Billion Dollar Mark

OTTAWA, May 5—(CP)—Subscriptions to the $1,000,000,000 fourth Victory loan passed the half-billion dollar mark yesterday and the total bond sales were $503,936,100, the national war finance committee reported today.

The comparative figure in the third Victory loan drive last August was $414,538,900, but the minimum objective in that campaign was only $750,000,000.

The current loan campaign opened April 26 and closes May 15. Tonight the half-way point in the drive is reached and unless the day's sales fall considerably below the average of the campaign so far subscriptions by then will have exceeded the half-way mark toward the $1,100,000,000 minimum goal.

YESTERDAY'S SALES

Yesterday's sales were $67,590,850 more than $20,000,000 higher than in the same day of the last loan.

National loan headquarters said that of the $503,936,100 total, sales in the general canvass and payroll deductions combined total $138,376,000. Payroll deduction sales amounted to $4,000,000 yesterday.

The $138,000,000 total of general

Serious Unrest In Bulgar Capital

LONDON, May 5.—(CP)—Axis radio reports today said that the streets of the Bulgarian capital of Sofia were deserted and that all roads leading from the Axis-dominated state had been blocked in a wide search for the assassins of Col. Johannes Panieff, former police chief who was slain Monday.

The population of the Bulgarian capital was ordered to stay at home during the large-scale raid made by police and army to detect ring leaders of recent attacks," the Berlin radio said in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press.

Only children up to 12 years old and servants were given permission to buy food during the forenoon. Telephone connections and trunk lines between Bulgaria and foreign countries are blocked. Nobody is allowed to leave his house."

The Nazis asserted that about the drastic measures suggested that the Balkan kingdom, first to desert the Kaiser in the 1914-18 war, was in grave unrest.

5,000 Prisoners Taken by British 1st Army Troops

WITH THE BRITISH 1ST ARMY IN TUNISIA, May 2.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The British 1st Army announced today that 5,000 Axis prisoners, including 4,000 Germans, had been captured in its sector of the Tunisian front since April 21, when the enemy made an abortive attack near Medjez-El-Bab on the eve of the current Allied offensive.

Plan Huge Number Of Landing Craft

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Senator David Walsh (Dem., Mass.) chairman of the United States naval affairs committee, introduced legislation yesterday to authorize the acquisition, conversion or construction of 1,000,000 tons of navy landing craft, small boats and barges, at an estimated cost of $1,422,000,000.

BERNE, May 5.—(AP)—Two hundred Swiss caught in France by the sudden closing of the border April 25 by Italian occupation authorities were able to return Monday night as military officials threw open the frontier. There has been no explanation for the closing.

REPORT CONVOY HEADS EAST IN MEDITERRANEAN

By The Associated Press

As the Tunisian battle raged toward a climax, Axis-controlled broadcasts for the third time in five days asserted that an Allied sea-borne armada was moving eastward into the Mediterranean from Gibraltar—sailing to attack the Italian "invasion route" islands of Sardinia and Sicily.

The Paris Radio broadcast a dispatch from La Linea, Spain, next door to Gibraltar, saying the convoy included 20 transports loaded with landing barges and armored vehicles.

Viscount Hewart Dies in England

TOTTERIDGE, Hertfordshire, England, May 5.—(CP)—Lord Hewart, 73, former Lord Chief Justice of England, died at his home today after an illness of several months.

Lord Hewart served as Lord Chief Justice for 18½ years, from 1922 to 1940, and was for more than a quarter century one of the leading British legal personalities.

He was created Viscount Hewart of Bury upon his retirement from his high office, having been Baron Hewart since 1922. These titles now pass to his son, Hugh Vaughan Hewart.

Lt.-Gen. F. M. Andrews

U.S. Commander in Europe Killed in Plane Accident

LONDON, May 5.—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Frank M. Andrews, distinguished flying general and commander of all United States forces in the European theatre of operations, was killed Monday in an airplane accident in Iceland, his headquarters announced early today.

The plane crashed "in an isolated locality in Iceland," and full information concerning the accident was not yet available," the brief announcement said.

The tragedy on the bleak island claimed the life of the highest American general to be killed or missing in this war. The 59-year-old Andrews was the highest-ranking United States army officer lost, Andrews on Feb. 5 had taken over the European command, succeeding Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. He came to his post from the command of American troops in the Middle East.

To most of his officers and men, Andrews was "the general," and a flying general, for he was one of LONDON, May 5.—The biggest force of four-motored British and Canadian bombers ever in action dropped nearly 1,500 tons of explosives on the German coal and steel centre of Dortmund last night, a Royal Air Force spokesman announced today.

The tonnage of bombs dumped on the Dortmund hub of the German war machine was "not very far short" of that tossed against Cologne in the 1,000-plane raid last May 30, the spokesman said in revealing that the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. again had hit a new high in the aerial offensive against the continent.

The raid followed by a few hours a powerful attack by American heavy bombers on Nazi industrial targets at Antwerp by daylight.

RECORD ASSAULT

The R.A.F. lost 50 bombers in the Dortmund raid, labelled as "very heavy" by a communique and revealed later as a record undertaking by the giant four motored planes—Stirlings, Lancasters and Halifaxes laden with block-busters.

Seven of the planes which failed to return were Canadian, a Royal Canadian Air Force communique disclosed.

An R.A.F. commentator said the progress of bombs in the Dortmund raid were not far from the losses in the famous 1,000 plane raid on Cologne, when 44 were lost.

"The damage done at Essen has no doubt thrown a greater strain on Dortmund," the commentator said.

He reported many searchlights at Dortmund but said the flak was not so intense as usual in the Ruhr valley.

USE HEAVIEST BOMBS

(A German communique said 36 of the raiding bombers were shot down, and the D.N.B. news agency estimated this at 15 per cent of the raiding force, adding: "German anti-aircraft batteries are equipped with arms of latest design proved extraordinarily effective.)

Preliminary reports indicated that our bombing was well concentrated," the ministry said.

Four-engined Stirlings, Lancasters and Halifaxes dumped many four-ton super block-busters as well as two-ton block busters on the city, which is the main east-to-west early transport exit from the Ruhr valley.

The raid was the heaviest of 25 on the city since the start of the war. In addition, the Dortmund-Ems Canal has been raided 15 times. The last R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. raid on Dortmund itself was on April 14, 1942.

An important centre in the Westphalian coal basin, Dortmund has large steel works, foundries, oil plants, and electricity works, as well as a large airdrome.

Americans Raid Bases in Italy

CAIRO, May 5.—American heavy bombers carried the air war to Italy again yesterday with daylight attacks on the Taranto naval base and Reggio Calabria at the toe of the Italian boot, the Ninth United States Air Force announced today.

All the American bombers returned safely from the two-pronged thrust at the bases in south Italy across the Mediterranean narrows, from the Tunisian battle zone, a communique said.

Dress Rehearsal

The Story of Dieppe

By Quentin Reynolds
Copyright, 1943, by Random House Inc.

Here is the sixth instalment of Quentin Reynolds' latest book "Dress Rehearsal" for which The Bulletin has secured exclusive publication rights. This book by the famous war correspondent is a stirring eyewitness account of the raid on Dieppe—the first air-land-sea performance in European theatre of war.—EDITOR.

We were joined at that point by a Canadian Captain—a press officer. He introduced himself and told us that it was about time we left. He asked us what ships we had been assigned to and the Wing Commander and the English Major said they'd been assigned to the destroyer Berkeley.*

*When the Berkeley received a direct hit at Dieppe, both the Wing Commander and the Major were killed, and, because their names have not as yet been released, I cannot identify them. Colonel Hillsinger was seriously injured. His leg was blown off but he recovered. He has been awarded the D.S.C. and the Order of the Purple Heart.

"Your American, Colonel Hillsinger, is also on the Berkeley," the Canadian said. "I assume that you are too?"

I said no, I was assigned to the Calpe, but I wished he could fix it so I could be on the Berkeley. I didn't know anyone who was to be on the Calpe, and I'd rather be with Hillsinger and my two companions on the Berkeley.

Fourth Victory Loan Sales In Northern Alberta Now Reach Total of $6,211,300

Climbing steadily toward the $12,796,000 quota set for Northern Alberta sales in the Fourth Victory Loan in that territory had passed the 48 per cent mark at the close of business on the eighth day of the campaign, it was announced by officials of loan headquarters.

Total sales amounted to $6,211,300, or 48.6 per cent of the quota, which is $1,711,300 more than the sale in the first eight days of the Third Victory Loan campaign.

The total sales for the province in the eight days was $15,841,000, with Tuesday's sales amounting to $1,536,600.

Fourth Victory Loan sales in Edmonton climbed beyond the 50 per cent mark at the end of the eighth day of the campaign, but general sales in the city were lagging behind the general average, it was announced by loan headquarters Wednesday.

Total sales for the eight days amounted to $4,586,800 or 52.1 per cent of the $8,805,000 quota set for this city. The general sales and payroll savings section had sold $1,758,100 worth of bonds, or 38.2 per cent of the $4,600,000 quota set for this division. The sales in Edmonton, however, were $815,854 short of the total at the end of the eighth day in the Third Victory Loan, and the number of purchasers up by 85.7. Sales on Tuesday amounted to $258,900 with 1,263 subscribers to bring the total number of subscribers to 5,289 in this campaign.

Sales in the rural district continue buoyant. During the first eight days of the campaign 7,442 investors purchased $1,624,500 worth of bonds, the equivalent of 40.9 per cent of the $3,964,000 quota set for rural Northern Alberta. Sales on Tuesday amounted to $250,000 with 1,126 subscribers participating. The sales in the rural districts

Coleman Re-Elected President of C.P.R.

MONTREAL, May 5.—(CP)—D. C. Coleman was elected chairman of the board of directors and re-elected president at the annual meeting today of Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Mr. Coleman, who was appointed president last year, succeeded the late Sir Edward Beatty in that office and also follows him as chairman.

The meeting adopted a resolution expressing profound regret at the death of Sir Edward, and shareholders present afterwards stood in silence for a minute.

U.S. Planes Raid Hainan, Haiphong

WITH THE U.S. ARMY AIR FORCE IN CHINA, May 4.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The heaviest American bombing onslaught from a Chinese base struck today against Japanese-occupied Hainan Island in the South China Sea and the dock area of Haiphong, French Indo-China.

The raid on Hainan was made by bombers recently sent from the United States to augment Maj.-Gen. Claire W. Chennault's bombers and fighters.

Both Hainan and Haiphong are major centres on sea and air routes from Japan to the South Pacific.

Appeal of Camrose Man Is Dismissed In Supreme Court

OTTAWA, May 5. — (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of George Oliad of Camrose, Alta., from a conviction for conversion of funds.

The court upheld the sentence of four months imprisonment imposed on Oliad in the Alberta courts. He was convicted of converting $1,000 belonging to Heintzman and Co., for which he worked as a salesman on commission.

Brief Presented

Introduction of Compulsory Collective Bargaining Urged By Canadian Labor Congress

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today proposed to the National War Labor Board a general revision of federal labor legislation and introduction of compulsory collective bargaining.

The recommendations of the Congress were contained in a 7,500-word brief prepared for presentation to the board in its general inquiry into labor matters. The brief was signed by A. R. Mosher, president of the Congress.

The proposals included:

1—Amendment of existing labor legislation to protect the right of workers to organize and to provide for compulsory collective bargaining and inclusion of "closed shop" clauses in employer-employee contracts.

2—In troduction of legislative machinery to avoid jurisdictional disputes.

3—Authority for the National War Labor Board to determine wage levels and bonuses in an entire industry, rather than on individual plant applications.

4—Establishment of a uniform cost-of-living bonus with regional variations and introduction of separate indices for zones.

ASK POSITIVE POLICY

"The basic need in the field of labor relations is the adoption by the federal government of a labor policy which will be positive, comprehensive and unequivocal in its attitude toward labor," the Congress said.

"It is of the utmost importance that the government should reverse its policy of restriction and repression and endeavor to encourage rather than restrain the development of the labor movement. . . .

In place of a number of orders-in-council or acts dealing with labor relations, there should be a consolidated order or act with the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act remaining on the statute books after being amended to eliminate the necessity of having a strike vote before an application for a conciliation board could be made.

The government's war labor policy as outlined in order-in-council P.C. 2685 of June, 1940, was "in fact not an order at all but a pious gesture," the congress said. It provided no protection for the right to organize or negotiate and was "utterly ignored" by employers.

Jurisdictional disputes could be settled by machinery for the taking of a ballot under government supervision to determine the wishes of the employees concerned.

OPPOSE WAGE CONTROL

The congress said it had strong objection to the government's wage-control policy so far as it was based on the assumption that there is a close and necessary connection between wages and prices.

"There are many factors in the inflationary process other than wages and wage increases and the board should be in a position to determine the effect of any increase in wage levels requested by the workers, so far as inflation is concerned."

"The congress believes that the present cost-of-living index is wholly inadequate to represent increases in the cost of living in different parts of Canada. . . . It is therefore urged that Canada be divided into zones or regions for the purpose of obtaining an index which will more accurately reflect the cost of living in each case."

Since early in his career he had been an enthusiastic airman, was a strong advocate of a powerful army air arm, and it was partly at his insistence that Flying Fortresses—one of the principal types of heavy bombers in the Unit 2 States army — were developed.

As long ago as 1935, Andrews had urged giant fleets of four-engined bombers.

When he took over his new command h.re, he declared that "my first job is to increase and intensify the bombing of the enemy."

HELD SEVERAL RECORDS

As a p t, Andrews, who was 59, held several United States and world records for long distance flights.

Andrews organized and commanded the United States army's general headquarters air force from March, 1935, until March, 1939.

He was sent to Panama as commander of the Caribbean defence area when the war broke out in Europe and then was assigned to the Cairo command last year.

Since the United States entered the war, he had received three decorations — the Distinguished Service Medal, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Panama Medal of Merit.

As early as 1937, Andrews was warning that the United States must prepare for the day when airplanes would be able to fly the oceans for direct attack on North America. Such a development, he said then, might come within five years.

CREATED "STIR"

Andrews had created a stir two years earlier by telling a Congressional committee that to insure against air attacks the United States must keep possible Caribbean and South American bases under surveillance and be prepared to bomb installations there. His statements were supposed to be secret but were inadvertently made public to the embarrassment of the administration which was beginning to make progress with its "good neighbor" program.

President Roosevelt reproved Andrews by declaring his views did not represent those of the country or the White House.

Born in Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 3, 1884, he was graduated from West Point in 1906 and began his army career in the cavalry.

One of Andrews' regrets was that he never got into combat service during the First Great War. He was assigned to the Signal Corps and served in Washington in the air division, office of the chief signal officer, until April, 1918.

In 1914 Andrews was married to the daughter of Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen who was commander of the American army of occupation in Germany.

C.C.F. Is Making Headway States Visitor Here

Steady progress is being made by the C.C.F. throughout Canada, and especially in Ontario, A. M. Nicholson, Conora, M.P. for the Mackenzie constituency, stated on his arrival here Wednesday to confer with C.C.F. leaders in Alberta.

National treasurer of the C.C.F. party, Mr. Nicholson, will discuss finances with local officials, and will leave Wednesday evening for Calgary. He has been making a series of speeches in his constituency in aid of the Fourth Victory Loan.

He predicted that the $1,100,000,000 quota would be achieved, and reported that response to the loan in Saskatchewan shows a marked improvement over previous campaigns.

Asked if there was a possibility of a Dominion general election this year Mr. Nicholson said that there are no signs at present to indicate an appeal to the electors in 1943. He added that the C.C.F. party was preparing against an election. "It believed in taking a keen interest in the nation's affairs at all times."

He said that progress of the party had been remarkable in Ontario, with many labor unions affiliating with it. Labor in that province, he said, looked on the C.C.F. as its political spokesman.

In Quebec, he said, the party had made gains in the large industrial centres, but had not made spectacular advance in the rural districts. He announced that the first C.C.F. paper, printed in French and published in the province of Quebec, came off the press on May 1.

TO HAVE CANDIDATES

He said that progress in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island was very satisfactory He predicted provincial elections in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, and added that the C.C.F. would have candidates in most of the ridings in the two provinces.

Commenting on the recent announcement by Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, the Saskatchewan M.P. said that the C.C.F. had advocated an overall manpower plan that would have enabled the government to allocate manpower to vital industries.

The recent Mitchell announcement, he added, was a belated application of this plan.

$891,450 above the amount purchased in the first week of the Third Victory Loan, and the number of subscribers increased by 3,816.

In the payroll savings section the Canadian National Railways, Alberta division, reported that sales in this campaign greatly exceeded those in the last drive, with 1,880 employees making purchases totalling $181,000 in the first eight days.

Canvassers said that the campaign is now gathering momentum and is being intensified in all the railway's departments. It is anticipated that the loan's total this year will be more htan 50 per cent in excess of the Third Victory Loan, while the number of individual subscribers will exceed the 50 per cent mark.

SPIRIT OF MEN

Indicative of the spirit of the men fighting Canada's battles overseas is that of Gunner W. J. Price, son of Mrs. R. V. Price. He cabled his mother at the week-end to invest $500 of his savings in the loan. This is in addition to the contribution he is making to the Fourth Victory Loan in the overseas canvass. He is serving with the 1st Service Regiment, R.C.A.

Another purchase by an Edmonton airman overseas was registered through loan headquarters Tuesday. It came from Ft. Lt. John Sterne, D.F.C., now serving with a R.C.A.F. squadron in England.

He wrote his mother, Mrs. W. H Sterne, to make a purchase for him out of his accumulated savings. The family make a co-operative purchase, one bond for Mrs. Sterne, and bonds for each of her sons serving overseas. This purchase will increase the amount invested by Ft. Lt. Sterne to $1,500 in the different Victory Loan campaigns.

2 Nazi Policemen Killed in Norway

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—(AP)—Norway's resentment against German occupation appeared today to be flaring into more violent channels as German authorities reported slaying on April 28 of two Nazi police officials at Bergen in the latest of a series of outbreaks by the seething population.

Underground forces also killed two Norwegians in Oslo for making reports to Nazi authorities against loyal fellow citizens, reliable quarters reported.

German sources acknowledged at the same time that "saboteurs" had blown up four boats in the Oslo fjord and said there had been cases of expert sabotage aided by secret agents landed by parachute from British planes.

Military, Political Discussions Are Taboo in Rumania

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Rumanian military authorities have issued orders forbidding public discussion of military or political affairs, the Bucharest radio announced yesterday in a domestic broadcast reported by the office of war information. Violations of the decree may be punished by "correctional imprisonment" ranging from six months to four years, the broadcast said.

In Brief to Board

Railroaders Object to Method of Determining Cost-of-Living Bonus

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—Dissatisfaction with the method of determining the cost-of-living bonus was expressed to the National War Labor Board today by the Standard Railway Brotherhoods.

The brief, presented by J. B. Ward of Montreal, chairman of the Dominion joint legislative committee of 18 standard railway brotherhoods, took particular objection to the government subsidization of certain commodities to hold down the index.

"When an increase in the index number with a corresponding upward adjustment in the wage bonus is anticipated, the government by subsidizing commodities, controls the index," the brief said.

"The cost of the subsidies is met by taxes largely collected from the workers. Thus public funds are taken and utilized to control earnings and indeed may bring about a decrease in the existing meagre cost-of-living bonus."

SAID DISADVANTAGE

"It is our conviction that the emphasis of control is on the cost-of-living index rather than on the actual cost of living," the brief continued. "We feel that inquiry into the policy of controlling the index by subsidies and the resultant additional taxation thereby created, will reveal the fact it has worked to the general disadvantage of the workers.

"Moreover, this condition will be accentuated if and when additional commodities are subsidized. . . .

"Obviously workers have no confidence in the compilation (of the index) and we strongly recommend that steps be taken at once to make such corrections as will reflect the true condition."

CLAIM MUCH UNREST

Discussing labor relations and the avoidance of production interruptions, the brief said: There is more labor unrest than we believe is realized by the authorities."

The brotherhoods suggested that, on application by a reputable organization, conciliation boards should be established without the necessity of taking a strike vote.

Conciliation boards should also proceed and report within 30 days.

"It is our considered opinion that a recognition of the right to organize and bargain collectively is the first essential step towards the avoidance of strikes," the brief said.

The brotherhoods recommended payment of a uniform cost-of-living bonus to all railway employees. Increased labor representation on government boards was also asked.

Formations of Soviet fighters and bombers supported the attack, blasting enemy airdromes and tangling with enemy planes in large-scale dogfights over the battlefield.

Soviet long-range bombers touched off numerous fires and explosions in a series of attacks on airdromes, the mid-day communique said, while a Moscow radio broadcast reported the destruction of 65 German planes against a loss of 11 Soviet aircraft in aerial combats west of Krasnodar.

BOMB RAIL POINTS

Ground fighting northeast of Novorossisk frequently reached the hand-to-hand stage, the Tuesday midnight communique said.

Soviet long-range bombers also were reported to have made heavy raids on Bryansk, Minsk and other important railroad junctions on the central front, causing large fires and explosions. A Russian broadcast said the junctions were packed with trains carrying troops, munitions, tanks and trucks, preparatory for an Axis summer offensive.

"By Jove, I am not covetous for gold nor care I who doth feed upon my cost; it yearns me not if men my garments wear; such outward things dwell not in my desires; but if it be a sin to covet honour I am the most offending soul alive."

King Henry V, Part 1, Act 4, Scene 3.

So said King Henry V of England on the eve of an invasion of the continent of Europe five centuries ago. At Agincourt the arms of England won a victory that lives inscribed for evermore on the national scroll of honour. Today Shakespeare's words re-echo in our ears as we Canadians prepare to offer our wealth, our goods, our blood, in a cause more honourable than Henry's; more honourable than any that history has yet recorded. Do we, too, covet honour more than cost, more than gold, and outward things? Let it not be said that even the least one among us has failed to back the attack.

VICTORY LOAN

THE GOVERNMENT NEEDS $1,100,000,000 TO PROSECUTE THIS WAR AND PROTECT OUR MEN OVERSEAS

This amount cannot be wholly raised from current incomes. A substantial part of it must be raised from accumulated savings.

This Bank recommends to its Savings Depositors the investment in the Fourth Victory Loan of their available funds.

The security is the best. The interest rate is attractive and there has never been a time when Dominion of Canada Bonds could not be readily sold or borrowed against at low rates of interest if necessity arose.

Pay-as-You-Go Tax Bill Wiping Out 1942 Liability Approved by U.S. Congress

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The House of Representatives yesterday passed, 313 to 95, a pay-as-you-go bill wiping out the 1942 federal income tax liabilities completely for approximately 90 per cent of United States taxpayers and imposing a 20-per-cent withholding levy against the taxable portions of wages and salaries, effective July 1.

Democrats barely battered down, 206 to 202, the modified Ruml plan which would have skipped a complete tax year.

Against the Ruml plan there were 192 Democrats, 11 Republicans, three minor party members. For it were 188 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

BACK COMPROMISE

When the Ruml bill failed the Republicans swung almost to the man to compromise, and a measure sponsored by Democratic leaders never came to a vote.

The approved bill, offered by Reps. A. Willis Robertson (Dem.-Va.) and Aime Forand (Dem.-R.I.), abates the six per cent normal and 13 per cent first bracket surtax on the 1942 income of all taxpayers, wiping out approximately $7,600,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000 of federal tax assessments against last year's incomes.

It now goes to the Senate where Republicans and some Democrats are prepared to open a new battle for the Ruml skip-a-year plan.

Robertson told the house the measure would put virtually all of the country's 44,000,000 individual income taxpayers immediately on a pays-a-you-go system whereby they henceforward would remit taxes in one year on the basis of income the same year instead of on the income of the previous year.

(Canada went on a "pay-as-we-earn" income tax collection system with deductions at the source beginning last April. Taxpayers were forgiven one-half of their 1942 tax liability for earned income to avoid piling the unpaid portion of the 1942 tax liability on top of current 1943 taxation.)

PROVISIONS OF BILL

The house-approved bill would provide for income taxe collections as follows:

1—Wage and salary earners (except members of the armed services, agricultural labor, ministers, and domestic servants)—will have 20 per cent of their taxable income deducted weekly, semi-monthly or monthly from their pay envelopes or salary cheques. This will not be an additional tax but provides a means of current collection against taxes on the statute books. The collections will cover both income tax and the Victory tax obligations. After July 2 there would no separate collections of five per cent on Victory taxes.

2—Persons with incomes from sources than wages and salaries, such as business and professional men, would be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis requiring them to estimate their tax for the current year and pay such estimated tax within the year.

3—Farmers—A special rule applies. If the gross income of an individual from farming for the taxable year is at least 80 per cent of his total estimated gross income from all sources, such an individual may file a declaration of the estimated tax at any time on or before Dec. 15 or the taxable year if the taxpayer is on a calendar-year basis.

FINAL RETURNS

4—The final return will be filed by all taxpayers as at present on or before March 15 following the close of the taxable year. On this return, adjustments will be made for differences between the estimated or withheld tax, and the correct tax reported by the taxpayer.

Since most taxpayers already have filed their 1942 returns on March 15, their payments on March 15 and June 15, 1943 will be treated as payments on their 1943 liability, instead of on 1942 income. Taxpayers on a calendar year basis who are required to file declarations of their estimated tax will file their first declaration for 1943 on Sept. 15, and their payments made in March and June will be treated as payments on their estimated 1943 tax.

A new declaration may be filed on Dec. 15 if the taxpayer desires to amend his estimate.

The measure provided a special $2,500 income tax exemption on the base pay of members of the armed forces and provides further that any federal income tax obligation outstanding against any person in the armed forces who dies during the war shall be cancelled automatically.

COMPLETE WRITE OFFS

The House approved measure abates the 1942 tax completely for all single persons with incomes of $2,500 or less and for married persons who had incomes of $3,200 or less last year. The income level affected by total abatement would be larger for married persons with one or more dependents.

As of July 1 the Victory tax collections would be three per cent instead of five per cent. The measure does not affect the privilege of the taxpayers to obtain a refund up to 40 per cent of the Victory taxes already remitted under the five per cent rate.

As of next March 15, single persons may obtain a credit against income tax liabilities of 25 per cent and married persons 40 per cent of amounts paid at the five per cent Victory tax rate.

Bracken Won't Take Seat This Session

By JAMES McCOOK

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, will not attempt to take over leadership of his party in the house of commons during the present session, it was indicated yesterday with announcement he will continue his extended Canadian tour well into the summer.

The house is expected to conclude in June or July. Even if a by-election were called immediately and successfully contested by Mr. Bracken, authorities said, it did not appear likely he would be able to take a house seat before the year's business was concluded by the commoners.

C.P.R. Employees Pass $2,000,000 In Bond Sales

MONTREAL, Que., May 5.—With their sights set at $5,500,000 in an energetic campaign to help put Canada's Fourth Victory Loan over the top, Canadian Pacific employees have surged over their second million dollar mark, and are now fast approaching the first half of their objective.

Accumulated returns from the companies band of canvassers in eastern and western lines at the end of the first week showed a total of $2,044,100 submitted by 20,440 subscribers—almost the exact equivalent of $100 per employee, subscriptions on Saturday amounted to $246,700 which represented a total of 2,374 subscribers.

Of the new progressive total, $1,532,000 has been subscribed by employees of the railway, $444,900 by the personnel of C.P. Airlines who have reached 97 per cent of their objective, and $67,200 by the C.P. Express Company staff, the company's eastern lines subscribed $550,850 of the total while employees west of Fort William raised the total by $572,350.

Nazi Refuses To Testify at Detroit Trial

DETROIT, May 5—(CP)—Nazi Oberleutenant Hans Peter Krug, whose testimony helped convict his former countryman, Max Stephan, of treason, yesterday held the spotlight at a second trial, but this time the former bomber pilot refused to testify.

Krug, at the opening of the treason trial of Theodore Donay, clenched his hands behind his back, declined to take an oath, demanded a flat "yes or no" answer from Judge Frank A. Picard on whether he would be helping the defence, and when this was not forthcoming, said grimly:

BLUNT REFUSAL

"I refuse to testify."

Then feet away from the German officer sat Donay, the first man to be tried in the United States on a charge of misprision of treason, a law written in 1790. Donay watched Krug intently, clenching and unclenching his hands.

Krug was surrounded by guards who brought him from a Canadian prison camp.

Judge Picard urged him to take the stand and tell the truth.

Three times Krug asked Defence Attorneys Nicholas Salowich and James E. McCabe if he would help them but Donay's counsel sat quietly.

With Krug's final "I refuse," Judge Picard ordered him removed from the court room.

It was Krug's flight from a Bowmanville, Ont., prison camp in April, 1942, that involved both Stephan and Donay. Stephan was convicted of harboring Krug, while Donay, a Detroit exporter, is charged with giving the young Nazi $20. Krug later was recaptured.

LONDON, May 5.—(CP)—Heavy bombers of the 8th United States Air Force, covered by an escort of R.A.F., R.C.A.F., American and other Allied fighters, bombed industrial targets in the Belgian city of Antwerp yesterday in their second daylight raid on Nazi-held Europe this month. The Canadians also escorted Ventura medium bombers attacking the railway yards at Abbeville in northern France.

Returning fliers reported that the Antwerp mission was "perfect."

NO BOMBERS LOST

Not a single bomber was lost. A communique said the escorting fighters engaged in several combats with enemy aircraft and shot down two. Several enemy fighters were destroyed by the bombers. Three of the escorting planes failed to return, but all the Canadians checked in at their bases.

Assisted Mass Immigration Of British Settlers Is Urged

By C. R. BLACKBURN

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—Assisted mass immigration of British settlers to Canada immediately the war is over was advocated here today by Garfield Weston, 45-year-old Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons.

In an interview with The Canadian Press, Mr. Weston said Canada had so far failed to impress upon British people the opportunities here for them to establish successful and happy homes.

He said Britain and Canada should begin at once to plan "with care and thoroughness" to promote the transfer of millions of British people to Canada, and for the integration of British and Canadian business interests.

A few weeks ago he put that latter theory into practice when he purchased from Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, the latter's holdings in the Eddy Paper Mills in Hull, Que., across the river from Ottawa. The sum involved is estimated around $5,000,000.

WOULD CUT TAXES

"I am definitely for an assisted immigration plan," he said. "Almost anything we could do to get several million English, Scots and Irish settlers into Canada would be worthwhile, even if we had to support them the first year."

With Canada now experienced in raising and spending great sums for the war effort, the cost of an immigration scheme would be "a mere bagatelle," said Mr. Weston.

"We complain about high taxes in Canada. The only way to cut them down is to double the population."

Canadian Officers Buried Overseas

By ROSS MUNRO

BROOKWOOD, Eng., May 5.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. H. L. N. Salmon of Toronto and Lt.-Col. C. F. Three army chaplains, Col. Ross Flemington of Sackville, N.B.; Lt.-Col. C. G. Hepburn of Ottawa, and Maj. J. G. Jones of Hamilton, Ont., officiated at the graves, a few feet from the plots where Canada's Dieppe dead were buried last August.

Buying Stability

A point worth remembering is that the required $1,100,000,000 of war money could have been secured without selling bonds to the public. The bonds could have been turned over to the banks, and bank credit obtained in return.

But that would have been dangerous. The amount of money in the hands of the general public would not have been reduced. The note-issuing powers of the banks would have been increased abnormally, and had they been led into adopting a liberal loan policy the country would have been in for inflation with a vengeance.

Mr. Ilsley during the now recessed session of parliament stated frankly that the Government last year borrowed too much money from the banks—for the reason that bank sales and certificate sales did not bring in the required amount. It would have to do this again should the present public bond sale fall short of the mark.

In buying a bond the investor is helping to prevent the menace of inflation, as well as safeguarding his own future. Every Canadian a bond-holder is an unreachable ideal; but the nearer that ideal condition can be approached, the greater security there will be for everybody both at present and in the future. Buying bonds is also buying stability.

The Break-Through

To General Patton's American forces goes the credit for having knocked the keystone out of the Axis mountain defence line in northern Tunisia. With the British 8th Army and 1st Army and the Lake Chad French troops hammering at the line to the south and Giraud's Moroccans edging along the coast to the north, Mateur fell to the Americans after bitter fighting which showed how vital the junction point was to the whole Axis setup. The capture has opened a gateway into the less rugged country toward Tunis and Bizerte, where Allied tanks and mobile armoured units can operate. This break-through gives point to General Giraud's prediction that the enemy will be cleared out of Tunisia as disposed of there—before the end of this month.

Berlin meanwhile radios a suspicion that Allied invasion forces may not wait for that event, but may launch attacks on Sardinia and Sicily any time. The implied admission is that at last a theatre has been found in which Allied operations are not hindered by lack of men or equipment. Not less significant, Mussolini is reported to have begged Hitler to give his Fascist soldiers as good a chance as the Nazis to escape if an attempt is made to evacuate the Axis forces—a petition to which Adolf will give the usual amount of attention.

There seems to be enemy agreement with the view of the Allied leaders that the Tunisian campaign is drawing rapidly to a close, with the complete expulsion of the Axis from the continent of Africa.

Canada Takes Over

Canada's navy and air force are to take over "full operational control" of anti-submarine warfare on the western half of the sea route to Britain. What it is asked, means that Canadian warships and planes will escort convoys half way across the Atlantic; where British ships and planes will take up the duty.

Hitherto there has been a 500 mile gap in mid-ocean where there was no air patrol, because of the distance from land. That difficulty has been bridged, and convoys will have overhead protection from port to port, as well as surface escort.

The airplane, because of its altitude and speed, and because an airman can detect a submarine under water, is a particularly deadly enemy of the U-boat. It is in mid-Atlantic that Hitler's boats have been doing the most damage lately. Canada's sailors and fliers are working together are going to see what they can do about that.

Under this arrangement the western half of the North Atlantic becomes Canada's special responsibility, a responsibility which it is only able to assume because we have the men, the ships and the planes. The distinction thus given to our protective forces is a tribute to the efficiency they have shown, and a declaration of confidence that they can make good on the job.

The broad significance is said to be, and probably is, that the Allies are to forego purely defensive tactics and go after the submarine as a menace to be sought out and destroyed wherever he may lurk or hide. United States ships and planes, it is inferred, are to take over the hunt in the central and southern Atlantic and the Caribbean, thus safeguarding the routes which lead to the Far East by way of the Cape of Good Hope.

—V—

On the Through Line

Edmonton people are in position to appreciate the significance to them of what Hon. J. A. MacKinnon had to say about the post-war extension of air services to the north and to the Orient, for they as well as what the city is and will remain a focal point of traffic by air to and from that direction. And since Alberta is making rapid strides in industrial expansion, they can as readily understand the importance here of the active trade-promoting policy which the Minister is pushing with characteristic energy.

In his luncheon address Mr. MacKinnon touched on another point, less important in itself but closely related to trade expansion, which has received rather less recognition than it deserves. The Alaska highway, he said, will be a link in the pan-American highway—which in the logic of things may be expected to connect with the highway system in Russia's Siberian territory.

There has been developing for many years—without international agreement but with international understanding—a highway system which eventually will join this continent with South America, traversing the Isthmus of Panama. In the new atmosphere created by war conditions it is to be supposed that project will be speeded up, perhaps by the framing of an international construction plan. The Alaska highway will carry this intercontinental road to Fairbanks, and provide a through tourist and traffic route from Alaska to the Argentine.

The tourist possibilities of this highway connection between the two continents are obvious, and as trade develops with equanimeanceship it will have an important bearing also on the development of buying and selling between Canadians and the peoples of the southern Republics—trade which Canada's Government is vigorously trying to promote with prospects of great success. Edmonton people have cause to be interested in the Alaska highway for this reason, as well as because it is now and will be a powerful agent in the opening and development of the north country and the awakening of tourist traffic.

The enemy high command doesn't.

Sweden Is Determined to Maintain Her Neutrality

Surrounded by Axis, she Hopes to Keep From War.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

STOCKHOLM. — Perhaps you can sense something about Sweden, as I do, from the fact that the best popular drama here is John Steinbeck's "The Moon Is Down."

Its stage play opened seven weeks ago. It moved later to a larger theatre, where it is still playing strong, picturing each night to a Swedish audience the Nazi occupation of Norway. The dominant theme of the play is the impossibility of crushing the spirit of a free people, which makes significant its great popularity in neutral Sweden, surrounded as it is by the Axis.

Raymond Clapper

I carried from America a copy of Wendell Willkie's new book, "One world," which is to be republished in a popular edition here—which also suggests something regarding the people here. For extremely few books can be brought over for republication, owing to the difficulties of transportation, and the selections are accordingly made with extreme care to hit the popular mood.

It would be a mistake to judge the neutrality of Sweden by the so-called neutrality of Spain. They are two different kinds of neutrality. We can think of Spain as merely a puppet of the Axis. Spain is run by a Fascist regime whose future existence depends on Axis victory. The downfall of the Nazi-Fascist Axis will mean the downfall of the Fascist idea and of Fascist regimes. Hence Franco's fate is wrapped up in Axis victory.

Just the opposite is true in Sweden. This is a democratic country whose way of life would be violently changed by a final Axis victory. Sweden has a next door the horrible example of Norway, whose democratic institutions have been crushed under Axis occupation. The Swedes know from these unhappy neighbors what that means. The people of Sweden know that they can continue to have their freedom only if the United Nations win.

Americans here whose judgment is sound agree on that size-up. They describe the Swedish press as one of the freest in the world. The right of criticism is jealously guarded.

The second point about Sweden is that she is determined to remain neutral. That is her traditional policy. The experience of other small nations occupied by Germany only strengthens the determination of Sweden to remain out of the war.

That is where her difficulties begin. There has been considerable popular criticism of the government's policy of allowing the Germans to send troops through Sweden into and out of Norway on leave, so-called. Undoubtedly the Germans use that privilege as a means of replacing troops. Also trainloads of German war material move in as freight to Norway. Recently a student demonstration at Upsala University had their roots in the popular disapproval of the use of Sweden as a traffic route for the Germans. Pro-Ally newspapers criticize the continuation of this traffic. And recently Premier Hansson said this traffic was one of the burdens Sweden was forced to carry.

Sweden lies close to the paths of both belligerents and is completely surrounded by the Axis. Therefore she is constantly under the necessity of protesting, as has happened since I arrived here, when a protest was made to Russia over bombs dropping near Karlskrona, and one to the British because of a plane flying over Swedish territory. But the stiffest notes were sent to Berlin over the recent firing on a Swedish submarine.

And the feeling is accentuated because of Germany's refusal to allow a resumption of the safe-conduct arrangement whereby five ships had been allowed to come in each month through the British and German blockades, and an equal number to go out.

The Germans stopped allowing ships to come in the first of the year, and Swedish ships are now unable to get in with wheat, leather and foodstuffs from South America. There is much resentment about this.

On the way here I saw four such Swedish ships tied up at the Azores and at Lisbon. The result is beginning to be felt. The new shoe ration allows one pair for 18 months. Food is bound to be cut down.

Yet Sweden remains determined to find a way to stay neutral.

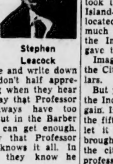
Have You Got Even One Cent?

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

Professor Scott Byron gave a lecture yesterday afternoon up here in Jeff's Barber Shop in Mariposa. The professor had come up on the noon train from the City, where he is a professor, and always when he comes up, he goes over to the Barber Shop and gives a lecture.



Stephen Leacock

You see, it's a real treat for a professor to be able to give a lecture under proper circumstances such as he can get in a Barber Shop. With others it's different. It hasn't the same life to it. They just sit there and write down their notes and don't half appreciate a good thing when they hear it. The result is that Professor Byron's talks always have too many statistics. But in the Barber Shop, they never get enough. The students say that Professor Byron thinks he knows it all. In the barber shop they know he does.

The Professor comes up to Mariposa pretty often. He's getting now on the first touch of old age, like September frost in a garden, that mellows a man and makes him ripe to the things he's grown used to. The Professor, you see, always comes up to Mariposa for the conditions are generally manages to have a fortnight at Christmas; he can usually snatch a week for the Dominion Day in May & and likes the break of a fortnight in early June for the herring fishing. Beyond that he can content himself with odd week-ends. He's a busy man. He says so himself. In fact he's getting touchy about it.

When the professor is going to lecture in Jeff's Place he comes in to get his hair trimmed. Understand, you understand, not cut. Jeff understands it exactly; he just trims it round so that there's as much as ever and the professor can come back next day and have it trimmed again.

I wouldn't mention all this except that it happened yesterday's lecture came in just right for Victory Loan week. I don't know whether the professor meant it that way but at any rate his talk was all about interest on money and how it increases if you let it alone. As soon as he said "interest" all the fellers in the shop were sure that he was hitting at the loan.

What he told us was certainly curious. Some of the "boys" doubted it but Jeff himself believed it fully. I'm free to believe when you run a barber shop.

He told us a story and he said you could prove it by the history book—that when the Dutch came to settle in America in 1621 they took the lower half of Manhattan Island—where New York City is located now—and they had too much conscience to take it from the Indians for nothing, so they gave them fifty dollars for it.

Imagine getting the best part of the City of New York for fifty dollars.

But professor Byron claimed that the Indians got the best of it in the end. If the Dutch, he said, had put the fifty dollars out at interest and let it stay there, it would have brought in, by the time the value of the city is worth. Of course the professor admitted that interest rates were low, but even at two people got ten per cent easy enough for business loans (Kings paid up to twenty or more) and even a hundred years later eight per cent was easy enough.

Here's the way the professor worked it. Money at 8 per cent doubles in 7¼ years. He gave the Dutchmen 10 per cent till 1735. Then 8 per cent till 1835; money at 8 per cent doubles in 7¼ and he gave them 6 per cent till 1895 (he said the United States itself paid that much on its bonds) and their money at 6 per cent doubles itself in 12 years; he gave him five per cent till 1923; at that, money doubles in 14½ years; he gave him till 1943 with money doubling in 17½ years.

This meant that every dollar the Dutchmen invested was doubled 35 times. It starts off as $1, $2, $4, $8 . . . and looks pretty harmless. But watch it when it gets going. When you get the total of 35 doublings multiply it by 50 because the investment is fifty dollars. It works out at something like $1,500 and a half trillion dollars,—$1,500,000,000,000. That sum is 240 times the assessed value of all the land and all the property in Manhattan. It would buy all the United States.

The professor offered to calculate it all out and he asked Jeff if he had a table of logarithms. Jeff said he'd always wanted one in the shop (they look nice) and that his wife had tried to grow them in pots but they came to nothing.

He was just going to throw the professor on his back and twist his moustache when he saw that Professor Byron was still talking, so he tilted him up and clipped his neck and let him go on.

This time it was William the Conqueror. "You've all heard of William the Conqueror," he said. All the fellers said as yes, and old Archie Green said he remembered him personally very well, and that he always used to walk in six miles from the Conyers place (in the fourth) every Sunday to the Presbyterian church in Mariposa. Very erect, Archie said.

The professor got his neck up higher and said he meant the William the Conqueror who conquered England. And some one said, "What would Mr. Churchill say to that?" and the lecture nearly went off the track, as lectures are apt to, in a barber shop. That's where students are better.

But the professor managed to get the audience back and what he told them was that if William the Conqueror's whole property in London had invested there one cent—just one single cent, and left it there, it would be worth a lot now, I forget what. As much as that.

Jeff said it was certally a caution, and some one else said that he supposed that if a feller took Victory Loan bonds at two per cent and just left it to increase, he might presently buy up the whole of Mariposa.

But the professor didn't stay for the discussion. He knew of another place where he could talk and he went out.

When he was gone some one said, "I'll bet the prof. buys in on the loan eh?"

There was a bank teller sitting there, a kind of smart feller and he said, "He has already. He put a cent in today."

Shackles in Canada?

FROM AMERICAN AVIATION

While it may be presumptuous for a U.S. publication to take issue with the policies of a foreign government, we nonetheless raised our eyebrows with considerable misgivings at Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's statement to the Canadian House of Commons on April 2.

The Prime Minister made two very positive statements that seemed to leave no alternative whatever as far as his government is concerned.

"Trans-Canada Air Lines will continue to be the instrument of the government in maintaining all trans-continental air transport services and in operating services connecting international boundary lines and outside Canada," he said. "Competition between air services over the same route will not be permitted whether between a publicly-owned service and a privately-owned service or between two privately-owned services."

Then as if to emphasize to the point of extreme clarity, he said: "The government sees no good reason for changing it's policy that Trans-Canada Air Lines is the sole Canadian agency which may operate international air services."

In this wise, for Canada to put all of its eggs, to use a time-worn expression, in one basket? Would Canadian commercial aviation have reached it's present efficient point of development had not there been competitive private air transportation in the United States?

And is Canadian Pacific Railway, which maintained the world's largest travel and transportation system before the war, to be prohibited from flying airplanes over it's former sea routes?

We have the highest regard for Trans-Canada Air Lines, the government-owned system which is part of Canadian National Railway, and this airline should certainly have a place in the world air picture. But we also have been impressed by the alert, intelligent and progressive leadership in Canadian Pacific Air Lines, whose parent is the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Why should not Canada have two aerial instruments in the world transport field, not one, when postwar expansion begins?

Perhaps we are butting into affairs of another country about which we admittedly know very little, but it seems to us that Mr. Mackenzie King's statement is not a healthy one for aviation's future in the north.

The idea of monopoly might become very catching elsewhere, especially in the minds of those who have no knowledge of aviation or what it means. Canada's fine aviation today is the product of private enterprise and initiative, largely inspired in this country.

TCA, in fact, owes it's great organization to a man who played a major part in the building up of the U.S. competitive air transport industry.

Why in the dawning of the great air age should aviation be shackled by anyone anywhere?

'The Cold Truth'

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES

There's no use trying to keep it quiet any longer. For a while there was hope that each new day might make it possible to forget the whole thing, but these matters are so grossly exaggerated that rumors are bound to get started. Word is already getting around, so it is just as well to bring it right out into the open.

The fact is that those radishes planted two weeks ago sprouted and came up wearing topcoats. Rather hastily sprouted, but topcoats just the same. Some have been saying they had wool socks, but a search investigation failed to bring that out. It may as well be labeled as the unfounded rumor that it is.

Moreover, out on Long Island there are carrot seedlings whose first leaves are green only at midday. Mornings they are livid, goose-pimply red; late afternoons they turn almost white—one might call it a scared-out-of-their-wits white, but that, too, savors of slanderous rumor.

Up in Rockland county there's a row of early peas in which one set of exploratory leaves appeared last Wednesday. When first seen they were quivering in the cold, unprovoked by any ungovernable chill, but there probably was a light breeze blowing down the row. Investigation the next morning, however, showed that whereas all the others in the row had sprouted, their leaves had not. They had, however, shoved an inch of the surface and then had turned back and headed downward. There is a rumor that they were seeking warmth, but it seems more likely that the peas were planted upside down.

These matters are set forth only for the record, but they may serve a nobler purpose. There's nothing like the truth to put an end to irresponsible rumor.

"Black Magic of Deception"

FROM THE LONDON OBSERVER

The methods with which Goebbels, in his newspaper "Der Angriff," made Nazi propaganda are without parallel. He developed libel and vituperation to an unprecedented pitch. He swept his public out of all bounds through the sheer breath-taking vehemence of the hatred he preached, the crime he suggested.

He developed the fine art of myth-creation, choosing as his first victim Jewry. Dr. Bernhard Weiss, Police President of Berlin, in a sustained campaign of several years he made, without any factual basis at all, into the symbol of police official, a former officer and holder of high decorations for valor, seem the very embodiment of every vice and corruption.

He gladly paid fine after fine for libel, heaping more enormous libels on those for which he had been convicted. He changed the whole character of the unhappy man all of his own volition from Bernhard to Isidor, and made Isidor a butt-every to be howled by Nazi thugs wherever he made an appearance.

It was the first dress rehearsal for his later vilification of Churchill and Roosevelt.

Under Hitler's influence, Goebbels had discovered the black magic of propaganda. He had found out that it is possible to engineer whatever mass emotions are desired by a kind of precise and mechanical psychological pressure, and he has since wielded this new power with a relentless contempt for both truth and the human mind.

It is almost pointless to reproach him with the inconsistencies and lies, because inconsistencies and lies are the very tools of his art; how to counteract the paralysis he is constantly trying how to enlarge their scope of action and how to overcome the paralysis and subjucation of the human mind, which is his aim.

There is no doubt that Goebbels looks with a certain contempt on men like Goering, Himmler, Ribbontrop, or the German generals, all of whom he has made his enemies. They all, he may say to himself, are only trying to do ing with the unhappy and coerce human bodies; he alone, as Hitler's greatest and truest pupil, is working at a task in which none has ever succeeded before. This is to subject and manipulate the spirit of man.

Meanwhile, his own spiritual turned traitor to the intellect is no happy man. His life is full of curious, pathological contradictions. Though nobody wields a greater and more sinister power over the German public mind, nobody is personally more unpopular in Germany. He is universally hated, even throughout the Nazi party. His excess of anti-Semitic propaganda is turning against him. To the ordinary Nazi this uncanny figure is the embodiment of diabolic Jewry as he himself depicts it, and there are rumours of plots and conspiracies—rumours in Germany which attribute a Jewish ancestry to him.

There are other, even darker traits. This man, who, owing to his physical deformity, has never been a success in the sexual or sexual occasions to have shown a pathological physical cowardice, is publicly the exponent of anti-Semitic surrounding himself with wounded soldiers, addressing them and posing for photographs.

Similarly, the man who leads a notoriously dissolute life, the man whose affairs are alternating dancers and film stars and whose unending public scandal, is publicizing the regularity recurrent attendances and confinements of his wife in an altogether shamefaced manner.

In a pathetic bid for personal popularity he has posed for a great number of pictures which show him as a family man. These pictures are the height of surrealistic art. Victorian group photographs with the paterfamilias surrounded by his faithful family, dandling a baby on his knee—but his paterfamilias is a swarthy, Mephisto-like figure with a smile that cuts through his face like a knife. It sends a shudder down one's spine.

Nevertheless, this unhappy, perverted man has supreme power in Germany and a greater power than ever today. In his latest speeches he has almost reversed to his Radical, Socialist beginnings. Is it a genuine return? Or is it his curse that he must hence forward parody what was once his genuine belief in the service of that black magic of lies and deception on which he has become the high priest?

Northern Greece in Revolt

All of northern Greece is in revolt against the German occupation, it is learned. Nazi attempts to conscript Greek labor, according to dispatches from Turkey and Egypt. Latest developments among fighting Greeks follow:

Patriots in the north of occupied Greece, called the Olympus Division, have joined with the Yugoslav rebel forces along the Greco-Serb frontier.

In eastern Greece, a chemical plant and bridge have been dynamited. Nazi officers have replaced Bulgarians in an effort to quell the revolt. Following the destruction of a bridge at Salonika, 145 Greek hostages have been shot.

Germans are using large forces of artillery, machine-gun and motorcycle troops to guard their lines of communication with Greek guerilla raids. Recently Italians were forced to use heavy artillery in the Parnassis district.

Hundreds of Greeks were killed or wounded by machine-gun fire when the Germans made recent attempts by Nazis to conscript Greek labor for transfer to Germany. Many of the Greek patriots which the Germans are throwing up along the Mediterranean, fearing an Allied invasion.

LONDON.—(CP)—Polish underground organizations have instructed their followers to give every possible assistance to deserters from Germany's satellite armies from Balkan countries on the Russian front.

SIDE GLANCES

"Rationing sure is wonderful, Grandpa! Imagine Mom asking us to go fishing while she paints the screens!"

Things at Home

The preservation of the home is the essential foundation of our democratic way of life. All great social advances from Habeas Corpus to slum clearance have been directed at the home, which remains the first line of defence both for faith and the social order. Yet today migration, a materialistic view of life, separation and death, and deprivation of parental care are delivering mass attacks upon the home such as no other institution has been called upon to bear.

Hence the timeliness of Queen Elizabeth's appeal on April 11th in her broadcast message for the spiritual revitalization of our homes. "It is on the strength of our spiritual life," she declared, "that the moral rebuilding of our national life depends. Our homes must be the place where it should start. It is the creative and dynamic power of Christianity which can help us to carry the moral responsibilities which history is placing on our shoulders."

The home, moreover, is the natural cornerstone of government and was one of the earliest forms of government. All other civilized institutions are of minor importance to it. In this belief we differ with totalitarian nations wherein the home and individuals are pawns subservient to an impersonalized state. When the moral force that emanates from a religious home loses its efficacy, there is no hope. The community, a group of families; towns and cities and countries are group of communities, are group of homes as their common base. To build the kind of home our country needs is a full time job for every one of us.

"Bring me a whisky, and get something for yourself," he said.

The waiter brought the whisky and a pound change.

"What's the idea?" said the star. "I've only had one drink, and you've brought a pound change out of five pounds."

"But you told me to get something for myself."

"Well, what did you get?"

"A new overcoat."

Edmontonian Is Vice-Chairman C.M.A. Group

SASKATOON, May 5—(CP)—Committees of the provincial branches of the prairie division, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will study post-war reconstruction problems and make recommendations to the executive at the next annual meeting, delegates at the annual convention decided yesterday.

J. N. T. Bulman, of Winnipeg, was elected chairman of the prairie division, the annual reports were adopted and methods of conserving manpower were considered. A report on manpower also will be made at the next annual meeting.

Hon. Errick Willis, minister of public works in the Manitoba government, told the dinner meeting that the provinces and boards of trade must use every effort to make prairie highways connecting with the Alaska highway attractive for United States tourists.

Mr. Willis said that with the development of the Alaska highway "We are looking forward to the unfolding of a vast new territory in the North-West."

F. D. Sutcliffe, Edmonton, was named first vice-chairman and Melville A. East, Saskatoon, second vice-chairman.

Members of the executive committee were: E. G. Rogers, S. W. Campbell, G. W. Swan, D. J. Hutchings, J. W. Bringhurst, J. D. Henderson, W. P. Kennedy, J. McDonald, all of Winnipeg; E. C. Whitehead, E. F. Fotheringham, both of Brandon; C. H. Richardson, John A. East, Saskatoon; J. S. Turnbull, T. A. Wilson, both of Regina; H. A. Goodman, Moose Jaw; J. A. Tupper, William Brockie, Howard Stutchbury, all of Edmonton; R. S. Trowsdale, P. O. Corbett, F. W. Hess, all of Calgary, and A. Atkins, Medicine Hat, Alta.

This is the hardest of the many invasion coasts where Allied forces may strike in their inevitable invasion. Here the Nazis have their strongest defences, and here the geography often favors the defending army. Invasion through northern France would be costly, but would undoubtedly speed the winning of the war.

VICTORY MUST BE PAID FOR

There's only one source for Canada's costs of war. That's you, Mr. Canadian—your savings, your income. Canada can meet the bill only with what you and others are able to provide. For you are Canada.

While there is only one source, there are two channels to it—taxes and loans. To keep taxes below the breaking point, to finance the war on terms we all can bear, our self-interest demands that we make the 4th Victory Loan a success.

That's why you and all Canadians are now called upon to buy Victory Bonds. To reach this minimum objective—one billion, one hundred million dollars—everyone will have to buy to his or her utmost. So buy two ways this time—buy with all your savings and buy again by pledging part of your income on the instalment plan over the next six months. The price of freedom must be met.

Dress Rehearsal

By Quentin Reynolds

"How come a Canadian press officer is on the show?" I asked.

He smiled. "It's pretty much of a Canadian show. You'll learn all about it when you get aboard the Calpe. But I can tell you that our generals got awfully tired of having our Canadians all on their families these past two years. So did the troops themselves. Anyhow, they insisted that they go on the next big do and this is it. Our men want to fight. You should have heard them this morning when Ham Roberts talked to them."

I'd heard of General James Roberts. General McNaughton was the C. in C. of the Canadian forces—Roberts his divisional commander. I knew that the troops thought highly of him. He had been born in Titestone, Manitoba, and educated at Edson College in England. He had gone through the Canadian Royal Military College at Kington (Canada's West Point) and had served as a gunner in France until wounded in March, 1918. A fighting general, they called Roberts. I mentioned this to the Canadian press officer.

TO BE NO PICNIC

"I'll say he is. You should have heard him talk to our lads this morning. Of course they all had been told that they were off on manoeuvres in which they were to use live ammunition. Once they were aboard the ships, Roberts told them that this was to be no picnic—it was the real thing. You should have heard them yell. They're really rarin' to go. He told them that they were to cross the Channel—they won't know exactly where they're going until the ships pull out—and he told them that the toughest part of the trip would be going through a German mine field about three-quarters of the way across the Channel. They've laid a ten-mile mine field which is too long to go around. We've got to go through it. Roberts told them that and then he added, 'But I want you men to know that your General will be the first through the mine field, and if I get through safely so will all of you.'

"Pretty good," I said. "He must have plenty of guts."

"He has," the press officer said, shaking his head admiringly. "His destroyer goes through first, and it has a hell of a chance to get blown up. And now we're off. I have a car for you gentlemen who are to be on the Berkeley and one for you to take you to the Calpe."

We shook hands and said cheery good-bys and I climbed into a car and headed for the Calpe. She was a destroyer of the Hunt class. There are a dozen or so destroyers all named after famous British hunts. The Berkeley was one. So was the Calpe. It always seemed rather silly to me to name a destroyer after what amounted to a country-club fox hunt, but then lots of things in Britain seem silly to me just as I am sure lots of things in America seem silly to visiting Britons. We're about even on that score. The Calpe looked very small and tired, but all destroyers look tired in their war paint. I climbed up the gangway and there was a good-looking young man in the uniform of a naval lieutenant waiting there.

"Your identification?" he asked, smiling. I gravely handed him my papers, and he introduced himself as Lieutenant Boyle, attached to the staff of Captain J. Hughes-Hallett of Combined Operations.

WENT TO WARDROOM

"Shall we go to the wardroom?" he suggested, and we did. It is almost a rite on British war ships that a visitor is first given the courtesy of the ship by the offer of a drink. There were several men sitting in the wardroom and I looked at them with curiosity. Everyone there was a stranger to me, yet I knew before long I'd know them all. Boyle ordered a drink for me, tea for himself.

"Technically, I suppose I'm a member of the forces now, Right?"

Boyle, puzzled, said that was right.

"In which case," I said, "I will be allowed to buy a drink. I've never been allowed to buy a drink on any of His Majesty's ships. It will be a change."

The little steward broke in. "Right, sir. In addition to the crew, we will have perhaps another sixty or seventy officers aboard and you all have the privelege of signing for drinks."

"Sixty or seventy extra? Where will we all sleep?"

The steward smiled. "I'm afraid sleeping will be out of the question, sir."

Boyle laughed too. "As soon as we leave shore I'll give you the whole plan. I've been assigned to take care of you. When you hear the plan I don't think you'll want to sleep. Should be a very interesting show from your point of view. This is the headquarters ship. The whole do will be run from here."

The wardroom reverberated with vague off-stage mutterings and groanings, and then sharp commands barked from the deck drifted down the hatchways to us. The ship shook herself like a puppy which had just come out of the water and, "We're off," Boyle said calmly. "Now first of all I want to introduce you to the General. He asked me to bring you up to see him as soon as we shoved off."

We climbed up two sets of iron ladders to the top deck. There was a fairly large, pleasant enough room there and Boyle led me in. A table had been set up and three men were doing things with radio instruments and telephones. But I didn't notice that. My eyes were on the big smiling man who stood up as I entered. His mustache was dark and closely cropped. His graying hair added a note of distinction to an already fine firm face. "Grizzled," was the word for the General.

"Glad you're on board," he said genially. "I'm Roberts."

"Glad to know you, sir," I said, weakly. What was it the Canadian press officer had repeated? Oh, but I want you men to know that your General will be first through the mine fields, and if I get through safely so will all of you."

THIS IS JUST LOVELY

"This is lovely, oh, just lovely," I said to myself, only half listening to Roberts. The charm of being the first to go through a mine field completely evaded me for the moment. For what? For a lousy story! I should have stood in bed indeed.

"... so this room will be our headquarters," Roberts was saying. "Meet Air Commodore Coles. He's our liaison with the R.A.F. for the show. We're apt to be pretty busy once we get into action but feel free to come in when you wish. You've been well vetted," he smiled, "and I've been told that we don't have to keep anything from you. Have you been told the plan yet?"

"A few hours later Air Commodore Cole was seriously wounded. He was awarded the D.S.O. for gallantry under fire.

"I was about to brief him, sir," Boyle said.

"Good. Then I'll see you later and if there's anything you want to know, don't hesitate to ask."

Survivor "Lucky Bloke"

70 Seamen Perish, Many Maimed In North Atlantic Torpedoing

HALIFAX, May 5.—(CP)—"I guess I'm a lucky bloke, that's all," said the youthful British seaman as he lolled in a chair and gazed down his pyjama-clad legs at his frost-bitten feet.

David Clowe, 19, is lucky because he escaped with his life and all limbs intact from the North Atlantic ' pedoing of his merch nt vessel and eight bitterly cold days in a wave-whipped lifeboat. More than 70 shipmates went to their deaths and others were left maimed for life.

Of the crewmen aboard the vessel, only 38 reached the one serviceable lifeboat after the sinking, and of these only seven survived the freezing gales and buffeting waves.

NOW IN HOSPITAL

These seven that came through are in hospital here now recovering from their ordeal. Four of them face amputations of all or part of their fingers and feet.

This is Clowe's third experience as a survivor in his three years sailing as an apprentice, and each time he escaped "practically unscathed."

This last time he was on his way home from the Mediterranean after his vessel, an ammunition ship, was blasted skyhigh by enemy bombers 14 months ago.

Several days away from Britain, the vessel ran into stormy weather. Waves and wind smashed the davits and carried away two of the boats as well as snapping off the top of the mainmast.

About 10 o'clock that night the ship staggered under the blow of a torpedo and began to settle rapidly. In 12 minutes she was gone, with only one lifeboat and one raft left for survivors. Clowe swam to the boat, and started helping others into it until there were 33 huddled together in the small craft.

"In the morning we sighted the raft with five men clinging to it," he continued. "We took them aboard. There had been 18 on the raft, including most of the officers, but the waves had rolled it over and over during the night and most of them were washed away. The captain died from exposure during the long night."

With the wind howling about them and soaked with cold brine they set out a sea anchor and drifted with the storm, hoping to be picked up.

There were 13 Britishers in that boat, and 25 East Indian seamen. The latter, unused to such bitter weather, died rapidly in the freezing water.

All except four were dead by the fourth day, and only one survived until the sixth day.

Sparks, the wireless operator, went mad and died the second day. The others dropped off one by one, usually just before dawn, and we would have to drop them over the side. Toward the end we were so weak, it took an hour or more to struggle each dead body over the thwarts."

On the morning of the eighth day a canso flying boat sighted them and that night they were picked up by a rescue ship.

More dead than alive, the seven were brought in here some time ago, their feet and hands a mass of lifeless, frozen flesh.

David Clowe recovered without the loss of any toes or fingers, and that is why today he considers himself a "lucky bloke."

Rationing of Meat In Cafes Success

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—Canadians experienced their first "meatless Tuesday" yesterday and dined in restaurants on fish, fowl, eggs, macaroni and other products of their own country. The mainstay of most menus was vegetables.

Price: Board officials, in charge of rationing, said the day had brought no complaints.

Estimates of the meat saving achieved by the "meatless day" varied, but one authority said it was believed restaurants use about 10 per cent of the total Canadian meat consumption.

The average Canadian eats about 2.6 pounds of meat a week. On this basis it was calculated unofficially the saving on a "meatless day" in restaurants and other public eating places would be around 400,000 pounds.

Purpose of the "meatless days" regulation is to reduce meat consumption of those who eat in restaurants to the same basis as those who eat at home and whose meat consumption will be reduced soon by rationing.

Employment Trend "Slightly Upward" Statistics Reveal

OTTAWA, May 5.—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in its latest report on the employment situation in Canada, said yesterday that the employment trend was "slightly upward" at March 1, with 13,532 establishments listing a total working force of 1,818,942 men and women compared with 1,816,505 at Feb. 1.

The weekly salaries and wages paid amounted to $55,835,282, an increase of $1,421,324 or 2.6 per cent over the aggregate disbursed at the beginning of February," said the bureau.

"The increase of 2,437 employees, or 0.1 per cent at March 1, slightly raised the index of employment, on the 1926 base, from 181.2 at Feb. 1 to 181.5 as compared with 161.4 at March 1 last year.

Export Subsidy on American Wheat To Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—The war food administration will suspend its 30-cent-a-bushel wheat export subsidy program May 14.

The subsidy has been effective since last December on United States wheat shipped to Mexico and other Latin American countries. It was designed to place American grain competitive with Canadian wheat.

Officials said the decision to withdraw the subsidy was prompted by two developments—first, the fact that the United States itself now needs all its wheat, either for food or livestock feed purposes, and second, lack of demand in the affected countries for the wheat.

Officials said less than 7,000,000 bushels had been shipped under the subsidy.

General Roberts nodded and Boyle and I left. We climbed down the ladders again. We sat at a table and young Boyle took out some maps.

"We are headed for Dieppe," he said. "Of course, we have a mine field to get through first, and we'll probably get our heads blown off there," he added cheerfully, "and never reach Dieppe. Still . . ."

"You make it all sound very interesting," I said, politely. "You don't mind if we have a drink while you tell me more?"

He didn't, so I ordered one tea, one whisky.

Men Instructed To Register For Essential Work

covered by the order if in any of the following occupations, regardless of whether or not the occupation is one in those industries listed as covered:

OTHER OCCUPATIONS

(1) Waiter, taxi-driver, elevator operator, hotel bell-boy or domestic servant;

(2) Any occupation in or directly associated with entertainment, including but not restricted to theatres, film agencies, motion picture companies, clubs, bowling alleys, or pool rooms;

(3) Any occupation in or directly associated with dyeing and dry cleaning (but not including laundries); baths, guide service and shoe shining.

It now becomes obligatory for every man in an age and marital class designated under mobilization regulations and engaged in one of the industries or occupations specified in the minister's order to apply to his nearest employment and selective service officer not later than May 19, the announcement said.

If there is no higher priority work available for him, he will be given a special permit entitling him to continue temporarily in his other employment. If it appears necessary in the interests of the war effort that he be moved to more essential employment, he will be given a direction to some such employment.

MUST CALL PERSONALLY

Each man who can call personally at an employment and selective service office must do so. A man so far removed from an office that he cannot call will be required to write to it and await further direction.

The present order, Mr. Mitchell said, refers specifically to every man in these restricted employments who was born in any year from 1917 to 1924, and who has reached age 19, regardless of whether married or single, and to every man born from 1902 to 1916 who, on July 15, 1940, was unmarried, divorced or judicially separated, or was then a widower without children, even if such a man has since married.

It also refers to a man who has become a widower since July 15, 1940, and now has no children living, as well as to men who since that date have been divorced or judicially separated. All men in the groups mentioned, regardless of their medical classifications, are required to report.

EXEMPT DISCHARGED MEN

For the present it is not proposed compulsorily to direct to alternative employment any men who have their discharge from the armed forces after active service in the present war, but this does not mean that such men are not expected to register by May 19.

Ex-servicemen now engaged in the specified low priority industries must register, however, and they will be encouraged to accept employment at high priority work. It is not proposed for the present to require a married man, regardless of when he married, or a single person who is maintaining a dependent, to accept alternative employment which would involve a change of residence.

However, married men in the listed occupations, if in a class designated under mobilization regulations, must register with an employment office, and they may be requested to accept alternative employment in the district in which they now are living.

Measures will be taken, Mr. Mitchell said, to ensure fair minimum earnings for those who are directed to alternative work. For example, a single person will not be directed to employment in agriculture unless the prospective employer is prepared to pay at least $40 a month and board.

PAY GOING RATES

In all cases, the employer will have to pay the going rate if the current rate of wages for a job is above any minimum rates fixed. Men will not be directed to employment where the vacancies arise out of an industrial dispute, and a man's health and physical condition will be taken into account when a transfer is decided upon.

"As it is so necessary to secure the workers required by the agricultural industry, a good many of those directed to employment will be sent to farms," the minister said, "but transfers will not be restricted to that line of work. Some workers will be directed to other essential industries where their services are needed."

Workers objecting to transfers will have a right to appeal to a court of referees, whose decision will be final. Any workers who refuse or neglect to accept employment to which they are directed, and who are not supported in their contention by a court of referees, are guilty of an offence, and upon conviction are liable to penalties and also to compulsory labor service in an alternative work camp, on the same basis as conscientious objectors.

DUAL OBLIGATION

"The order in regard to compulsory labor transfers," said Mr. Mitchell, "imposes obligations both on employers and on employees.

"After May 19, it will be illegal for any employer in the industries or occupations covered by the order to retain in his employ any employee in a category designated under mobilization regulations, unless a special permit in the prescribed form entitling the employer to retain the man's services, has been secured from a selective service officer.

"Also, of course, it will be illegal for men in the defined classes to remain in such employment without the special permit. Definite check-ups will be made, in order that penalties may be applied against any who commit infractions of the regulations."

This, the first order on compulsory labor transfers will be followed by orders dealing with other non-essential employments.

MADE BY STAGES

"The public will realize, I am sure, the minister said, "that the administrative features of compulsory labor transfers subject the employment and selective service offices to considerable strain. This has been true in all countries where the system has been applied. Therefore, from the administrative viewpoint, it is necessary that the transfers be made by stages, rather than all at once.

"We expect that this readjustment within agriculture and industry will go a long way to assist where labor shortages now threaten vital production."

PERCY FAITH

JOSEPHINE ANTOINE

CLAUDE RAINS

Entertainment royalty is coming to Canada to make the fourth Victory Loan Hour one of regal splendor. This Victory Loan Hour to be broadcast from Montreal, Wednesday, May 5th from 7 to 8 M.D.T. and featuring a galaxy of stars, promises to hit a new high in the series. Five headline stars including Claude Rains, prominent stage and screen star; Josephine Antoine, lovely coloratura soprano; Rasha and Mirko, Serbian Troubadors and Canada's own Percy Faith, conductor and arranger, are giving freely of their time and talent to take part in the Victory Loan Hour.

Claude Rains, a veteran of World War 1, was gassed and wounded at Vimy Ridge. He started acting after that and soon became a prominent figure on the English stage. Subsequently, he came to America and played in Theatre Guild productions — then, Hollywood called him and his first picture was a success although, ironically enough, he remained unseen throughout the entire film. It was "The Invisible Man". Mr. Rains is perhaps best remembered for his role as Mr. Jordan in "Here Comes Mr. Jordan."

Josephine Antoine, the blonde singing star of "The Contented Hour" combines a warm sympathetic quality of voice with remarkably highly developed technical ability. The 1942 season has established Miss Antoine as one of the most glittering stars in concert, radio and opera. She maintains a heavy schedule of concert engagements throughout the U.S. and Canada combined with entertainment of members of the Armed Services.

Rasho and Mirko, baritone star and guitar virtuoso, known as "Serbian Troubadors", have appeared on radio, television and concert stage in different parts of the country. New York has claimed them permanently with posts at smart night spots such as La Vie Parisienne. Much of their extensive repetoire bears the stamp of their own sparkling arrangements, decidedly novel and original. Their songs originate in the land of the Serbians, Croatians and Slovenians.

Canada's famed Percy Faith made his debut as a concert pianist in Toronto. During his seven years as staff conductor, arranger and pianist with the CBC, Faith wrote and arranged music for important dramatic programs and conducted many popular programs, including the Empire Broadcasts when the King and Queen visited Canada. He is now permanent conductor for the Contented Hour. Percy Faith has generously contributed his talents to assist Canada's Fourth Victory Loan by arranging the music for the entire Victory Loan Hour Series.

Those stars, supported by the orchestra and choir, under direction of Percy Faith, may be heard in a splendid hour of entertainment on the broadcast which originates in the Sun Life Auditorium, Montreal, on Wednesday evening, May 5, over CJCA and the CBC National Network from 7 to 8, M.D.T.

Slovak Premier in London Says Allied Aid Essential To Rehabilitate Homeland

Jan Sramek, Prime Minister of Czechoslovakia, thinks his country must be rehabilitated with Allied aid before she can think of long-term peace aims, he says in the following article, first of a series on United Nations' views of post-war planning. Then, he hopes, an agreement with Poland and Russia will be a sufficient buffer against any future German drang nach osten.—EDITOR.

By MONSIGNOR JAN SRAMEK
Prime Minister of Czechoslovakia

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—When the last German soldier of the occupation force will have left Czechoslovakia, our lands will have been scourged, robbed and looted for years by the German intruders. Hundreds of thousands of men and women who have been dragged to Germany still will be somewhere in the Reich.

The preparatory work of the different departments of the Czechoslovak government in London and particularly that of the ministry of reconstruction has been concentrated on:

1—An immediate program of what is to be done first in order that the worst consequences of German occupation on physical and economic conditions may be removed.

RECONSTRUCTION PLAN

3—A plan for reconstruction, rebuilding and reforming the social, economic and political life, this plan being parallel to Churchill's "four year plan" and after.

The first plan will provide for "first aid", that is, food for the people, raw materials for the workshops in order that the economic wheels can start again. This plan can of course be carried out on an international basis only.

The second plan deals with the restoration of state administration, jurisdiction, education and above all certain financial measures securing a return to a consolidated currency condition and building up wages and prices on the basis of that restored currency. This will be greatly facilitated by international currency, good exchange agreements which I hope will be reached in time to secure the economic side of the future peace.

PREPARATION NEEDED

The peace conference, I believe, will only begin after statesmen of the United Nations have prepared it thoroughly. The armistice period will be a period of preparation for the final settlement. The Czecho-Slovak aim then will be to achieve the security of the republic within its pre-Munich boundaries. We have no territorial claims.

Our foreign policy is based on a presumption of close collaboration between the west and east; that's why we greeted the Anglo-Soviet agreement and welcomed American-Soviet collaboration.

We want an agreement with Poland. This endeavor fully accords with our fundamental and traditional principle that neither directly nor indirectly shall we undertake or participate in any action which might be directed against the Soviet Union.

Thyssen's Brother Is Reported Dead

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—(AP)—The Frankfurther Zeitung of April 29, received here yesterday, said Hans Thyssen, German industrialist and brother of Fritz Thyssen, the steel magnate, had died at Munich after a long illness. Fritz Thyssen, an early supporter of Adolf Hitler who later repudiated his allegiance to the Fuehrer, has been variously reported as dead and held in confinement by the Nazis.

Manufacturers In West Plan Post-War Study

SASKATOON, May 5.—(CP)—Each of the provincial branches of the prairie division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will appoint a committee to study post-war reconstruction problems, it was decided at the executive meeting of the prairie division here last night.

The committees will confer with one another to pool their ideas and will make recommendations to the executive.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION

Attention was given to the accident prevention, and consideration was made of what could be done by workers and employers to conserve manpower. It was realized that the main problem was to obtain the co-operation of all concerned, employees and employers. The executive is to report on this at the next meeting.

The executive passed on annual reports.

Cecil Richardson, Saskatoon, chairman of the prairie division, presided.

Earlier the Saskatchewan branch announced it would make a study of post-war reconstruction problems and of collective bargaining.

U.S. Civil War Vet Observing 106th Birthday

VICTORIA, May 5.—(CP)—Veteran of the American civil war, during which he says he served in the 17th Wisconsin regiment from Green Bay, George Laramee, believed to be Victoria's oldest resident, will celebrate his 106th birthday Wednesday.

Mr. Laramee does his own shopping in the city and finds wood cutting a recreation. His memory is as good as ever. Born near Montreal, he has been a miner, prospector and logger in the United States, Canada and the Yukon.

Victory Over Submarines Earlier Than Hoped Seen

HALIFAX, May 5—(CP)—Germany's U-boat fleet in the northern Atlantic has "undoubtedly increased greatly" during the past four months, but the combined attacking power of the Canadian and British navies and air forces will eventually drive the enemy from the sea, much sooner perhaps than many dare hope.

That is the confident opinion expressed here last night by Rear Admiral L. W. Murray of the Royal Canadian navy, recently appointed commander-in-chief of the Canadian northwest Atlantic.

"There can be no absolute immunity against attack," Rear Admiral Murray said, "and we must expect more losses."

"Protection of the convoys has improved immensely since the dark days of last year when the enemy concentrated his attack in the Caribbean and along the Atlantic coastline. But we need greater protection because the German submarine fleet has undoubtedly increased greatly in the last four months."

His job is to repel the desperate thrust of Hitler's U-boat pack and co-ordinate closely the work of the navy and R.C.A.F., both of which have a vital task.

The enemy may strike anywhere at any time, he continued, but the combined forces will need every effort to outguess and outplay him on every move.

"When will the war be over, Daddy?"

"THIS war will be over, darling, when children all over the world are free to play as you can without being bombed and machine-gunned by air raiders.

"This war will be over when bad men are no longer able to drag mothers and fathers from their children and put them in prison camps or to work as slaves in a strange country.

"This war will be over when we have made certain that enemy armies cannot steal food, and leave boys and girls -- big and little -- to starve to death.

"This war will be over when wicked men can no longer torture and murder peace-loving people just to satisfy their craze to run the world."

Hasten the day when with thankful hearts and profound relief we can say to our children "The world is free again."

Stocks—
At New York: Rails strong.
At Montreal: Firm trends.
At Toronto: Metals gain.

Wheat—
At Winnipeg: ⅜ higher, closing at 1.00⅜ (May).
At Chicago: Unchanged to ¼ lower, closing at 1.45⅝ (May).

Futures Prices Ease at Chicago

CHICAGO, May 5—(AP)—Grain prices eased today under the leadership of oats, which declined on reports vessels were moving down the lakes loaded with oats from Canada. At one point time wheat was higher on moderately favorable crop reports, but easiness in other grains finally upset the bread cereal.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¼ lower, corn was unchanged at ceilings, oats were unchanged to ¼ lower and rye lost ⅜-⅞.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, May 5—(AP)—Industrial shares were higher in a generally firm stock market today. Long-dated British funds were easier.

Kaffirs advanced on Cape Town support. Diamond shares also were well supported. International securities showed gains with Brazilian Traction securities leading.

Buying Boosts Wheat Futures

WINNIPEG, May 5—(CP)—Buying orders outweighed offerings on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, causing wheat prices to climb fractionally. The May future closed ⅜ cent higher at $1.00 a bushel, July ¼ higher at $1.00⅞ and Oct. ⅛ lower at $1.00⅞.

Southern houses, shippers and locals were credited with minor purchases.

United Kingdom buyers took 700,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, while another 200,000 bushels went to Eire.

Carlot quantities of No. 3 Northern and lower grades sold in the cash wheat market. There were indications a small round lot of No. 1 Northern was taken by shippers. A small volume of cash barley sold for export to the United States.

Coarse grain dealings were quiet with small quantities of July and October barley changing hands and only routine trade reported in rye futures.

Grain inspections at Winnipeg yesterday totalled 253 cars compared with 1,011 a year ago. Country marketings amounted to 647,000 bushels.

Education Bill Gets 2nd Reading In Quebec House

QUEBEC, May 5. — (CP) — The Quebec legislative assembly, by a vote of 40-12, gave second reading last night to a bill that would make school attendance in the province compulsory for children between six and 14 years of age.

The vote came after conclusion of a lengthy debate on the measure in the 86 seat lower house which must study the bill clause by clause and give it third reading before sending it to the legislative council. The council, 24-seat upper house, must also give the bill three readings before it becomes law.

Loud applause followed counting of the vote.

Report Attempt To Slay Fascist Party Secretary

LONDON, May 5. — (CP) — A roundabout report received here last night said an attempt had been made on the life of Carlo Scorza, new secretary of the Fascist party and second only to Mussolini in current Fascist rankings.

A Soviet News Agency dispatch from Turkey, broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor, said numerous members of the Fascist youth organization had been arrested as a result of the attempt.

There was no immediate indication whether Scorza had been injured.

Ford of Canada Expands Foundry For Fourth Time

WINDSOR, Ont., May 5.—Increasing the steel making and casting capacities of its Windsor plant foundry for the fourth time since the war started, Ford of Canada is currently proceeding with a $2,900,000 expansion of building and equipment which will increase foundry capacity five-fold over pre-war levels.

The addition to the building will provide 45,000 square feet of floor space in the foundry and is to be completed by July 15. New electric melting furnaces, heat treating furnaces and other installations are to be ready for use early in the fall of this year.

All told the foundry will be equipped with 18 large electric steel making furnaces, two iron making furnaces and several smaller electric induction furnaces. The full foundry capacity is expected to reach approximately 450 tons of cast steel per 24-hour day.

The company is also expanding its heat plant in which metal parts are annealed and tempered. This building is in direct line with the foundry and the extension to both will result in their meeting to form one continuous plant 960 feet long by 225 feet wide.

CONTRACT LET

The general contract for the new construction has been let to the Anglin Norcross Ontario Company, Ltd., and the structural steel contract to the Canadian Bridge Company, Ltd. The latter contract calls for the erection of 800 tons of steel of which more than 85 per cent will be rolled in Canadian mills.

The new building will be fireproof and constructed of steel, brick and reinforced concrete with large glass areas in sidewalls and roof monitors. The glass will be obtained from customary sources in England.

A 65-foot cranebay will extend along the east side of the foundry and heat treat building. It will be equipped with three ten-ton electric cranes and, one, seven and one-half ton crane.

ADDITIONAL FACILITIES

Additional foundry facilities are required as a result of the company's tremendous war production program and largely because of the increasing use of a Ford of Canada developed technique in the manufacture of cast steel parts for universal carriers and other military vehicles. This new development is known as centrifugal casting whereby the molten steel is poured into revolving moulds instead of the customary stationary moulds. Castings produced by this new method are of better quality and more quickly and economically made than the forgings they supersede.

The company is also proceeding with an extensive installation of permanent outside craneways. There are two of these under construction, each 784 feet long with a span of 100 feet. They run parallel and adjacent to the foundry building and are equipped with speedy seven and one-half ton cranes each with a 54-inch electric magnet for handling metals. Foundry furnace charges are handled by one craneway and bar and sheet metal stock by the other.

STORAGE BUILDING

Also included in the current expansion program is the construction of a building for storage of refractory materials which is connected to the foundry by a tunnel; installation of electric annealing furnaces instead of the customary gas burning type; a spectrograph laboratory which will provide modern and scientific means for the quick analysis of steels, and other items of modern equipment.

The three previous wartime foundry expansions were made in 1941 and 1942 at a cost of approximately $2,350,000. These together with the current program will result in total expenditures on foundry improvement since the war started of approximately $5,200,000. Construction of buildings, installation of furnaces and the cost of all permanent equipment is financed by the company.

Claim Easter Isle Occupied by U.S.

LONDON, May 5 — (CP) — The German-controlled Paris radio reported today that the United States, with the consent of Chile, had occupied Easter Island in the south Pacific, a move which the broadcast said had given the United States an "important air and naval base."

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The German report was not immediately confirmed by any Allied source. Easter Island is about halfway between the Chilean coast and Pitcairn Island and is approximately one-third of the distance to Australia, which is on a direct line to the west.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

IT NOW looks as if both Army and Navy Pats and Walkrites will be short their ace chuckers this season due to the start of the new pro softball circuit, but the opening game in the City Girls' Fastball League here next week takes on added interest as a direct result of this migration to the big time.

The Pats and the western Canadian champions are scheduled to meet in the first game of the season at Kingsway Park and unless present plans are upset, Helen Nicol and Annabelle Thompson will be opposing each other in their only appearance here before leaving for Chicago.

Managers Clare Hollingsworth and Murray Saidman both expect to use their star flingers in the curtain raiser for local fastball next Wednesday. This should be quite a game.

BOTH CLUBS FORTUNATE

ALTHOUGH the two clubs will be hard hit by the loss of these outstanding pitchers, the situation is certainly far from hopeless, for they both have good reserve mound strength.

The Pats will also be out Jean Ward who is performing with Aircraft Repair this year, but they have Beryl Westbrook. Walkrites are also fortunate in having available Elsie Vaughan, who took her regular turn in the box all last season and came up with her usual quota of wins. Manager Saidman stated last night that Verda Griffith, formerly of Lloydminster, was practising regularly with the team and would be available.

Aircraft Repair, South Side Athletics, C.W.A.C. and Muttart Lumber, the other teams in the senior girls' have all been holding periodic workouts, but no information has yet been released by the coaches as to the respective personnel of the teams.

HERE AND THERE . . .

JUNIOR football at No. 2 "M" Depot is losing one of its best supporters, Pte. Lt. J. J. McGarry having been posted to an eastern station. The Padre was assistant coach of the Alberta champions last fall and it would be hard to find a more enthusiastic booster for the game.

"Shorts" Purcell, many times city champion, would remind all interested that the annual meeting of the Glenora Tennis Club is being held tomorrow night.

AC2. Harry Ornest, until recently at the "M" Depot here, has been posted to No. 4 Air Training Command at Calgary. Harry performed second base for the Arrows in the city senior baseball league two years ago, last season playing in Seattle and Tacoma.

Preakness a Walkaway

Pimlico Fans Turn to Oaks For the Week's Best Race

By DONALD SANDERS

BALTIMORE, May 5.—(AP)—Pretty well convinced that the 53rd running of the Preakness on Saturday would produce only a contest for second money behind the speedy Count Fleet, Pimlico racing fans looked to the 21st running of the $10,000 Added Pimlico Oaks today to provide the best contest of Maryland's biggest racing week.

Despite Count Fleet's comparatively slow time in the Kentucky Derby, the class of Mrs. John D. Hertz's color bearer apparently had frightened off all but three colts.

This trio included Allen T. Simmons' Blue Swords, second in the Derby and two home-breds, W. L. Brann's Vincentive and H. L. Straus' New Moon.

One colt which had been considered a possible Preakness starter—Belair stud's Bossuet—won at Jamaica Monday, but the son of Boswell will not be shipped here.

NO FILLIES ELIGIBLE

For one of the few times in the history of the $50,000-added Preakness, no fillies were made eligible for that race, but almost every top-flight filly of 1942 was listed among the 11 racers named to face the barrier in the mile and one sixteenth Oaks which will feature today's Pimlico program.

All will be equally burdened under 121 pounds.

Heading the Oaks entries is Askmenew, the Hal Price Headley color bearer, which topped the juvenile filly division last year. The brown daughter of Menow won the rich Selima Stakes at Laurel and was second to Occupation in the Belmont futurity, where she bested Count Fleet.

Her stablemate, Who Me, is also named for the Oaks.

LA REIGH A FAVORITE

Another favorite is Anthony Pelleteri's La Reigh, winner of the Adirondack and Betsy Ross Stakes last year. La Reigh has an impressive race in the tuneup Regret Purse here last week, although she finished second to Vincent Cicero's Royal Flush, another Oaks entry.

Others named to face the starter are Christiana stable's Bras, Mrs. John Fisher's Gloriola, Louis B. Mayer's Samaritan, King Ranch's Too Timely, Harry Sluttz' Spartiate, H. F. Guggenheim's Good Morning and George D. Widener's Pomrose.

If all go to the post, the value to the Oaks winner will be $10,475.

To Chicago

Annabelle Thompson, of the Walkrites, last year's western champions has been offered a tryout for a place on one of the teams in the pro softball league in the United States. She will report in Chicago on May 17.

Fastball Workouts At Kingsway Park

No. 2 "M" Depot, of the Senior Men's Fastball League and Hayward Lumber, of the Senior Ladies' League will hold practices tonight at the Kingsway Park. The former will work out from 7 to 8 and the girls' team from 8 to 9.

Walk-Rites will practice at the park on Wednesday night from 7 to 8 and Moose from 8 to 9.

Glen Riddle farm's Strategic in the $2,500 Survivor Stakes Tuesday. New Moon was the only Preakness eligible in the mile and a sixteenth test.

Phils Beat Dodgers to Move Out of Cellar

Melton Loses To Former Team-Mates

BROOKLYN, May 5 — (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies climbed out of the National League cellar yesterday with a 3-1 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers in the major leagues' first twilight game of the season.

Left, Jack Kraus, a former Dodger farm hand who was traded to the Phillies for Bob Bragan this spring, pitched five-hit ball for his second success over the club that let him go.

His victim was Frank (Rube) Melton, whom the Dodgers obtained from the Phillies during the winter, this giving the Phillies the upper hand at least for the present in the bartering betweenthe two clubs.

Melton pitched no-hit ball until Earl Naylor led off the seventh with a home run, his second of the season. An error and a triple by Danny Murtaugh gave Philadelphia another run before the inning was over and in the ninth singles by Murtaugh and Ron Northey and a fly by Dan Litwhiler accounted for an additional run off Newt Kimball.

Kraus' bid for a shutout was spoiled in the ninth when Dixie Walker doubled and Joe Medwick singled.

KUROWSKI'S BIG BAT HELPS OUT CARDINALS

CHICAGO, May 5—(AP)—Pounding four Cub pitchers for 15 hits, including a homer and two singles by George (Whitey) Kurowski, St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday piled up an early lead to rout the Chicagoans 11-3, in the opening game of their National league series.

Last night the Cubs, with five straight defeats behind them, weren't so sure that bringing back the old ball was such a good idea.

The only solace the Cubs could eke out against Southpaw Ernie White was to break their string of 23 consecutive scoreless innings in the fifth and to wind up with 10 hits, including doubles by Stan Hack, Eddie Stanky, Lenny Merullo and Stu Martin. With Jimmy Brown and Lou Klein hitting triples for the Cards, the 2,968 fans saw 25 hits go for 36 bases.

PITTSBURGH SQUARES SERIES WITH REDS

CINCINNATI, May 5.—(AP)—A three-run first inning, including Vince DiMaggio's two-ply homer, started Pittsburgh Pirates on their way to an 8-3 victory over Cincinnati yesterday to even the current National League series one-all.

The Reds outhit their foe 13-9, but except for three innings Brooke Xavier Rescigno held them in the palm of his hand for his first victory of the year.

Singles by Johhy Barrett and Bob Elliott and walks to Elbie Fletcher and DiMaggio sent Ray Starr to the showers in the third.

JIM TOBIN SCUTTLES NEW YORK GIANTS

BOSTON, May 5.— (AP)—Big Jim Tobin pitched and batted Boston Braves to a 5-3 National League victory over New York Giants yesterday with the help of Buddy Rosar. Charley Workman who hit a two-run homer in the third inning.

Tobin drove in Boston's other runs, two with a single in the second inning and one with another single in the sixth. Johnny McCarthy also figured in the Braves' offensive with three of their seven hits.

Tobin held the Giants to six hits, but three of them were doubles for three runs in the sixth. Buster Maynard and Nick Witek opened with successive two-baggers for a run. With one out, Mel Ott walked and Sid Gordon doubled for another. Then Billy Jurges brought Ott home with a fly.

Four Pennants in Five Years

Tinker to Evers to Chance— Names That Spelled Double

From Tinker . . .

. . . to Evers

. . . to Chance

By HARRY GRAYSON

Ruthlessly pricking our gonfalon bubble,
Making a Giant hit into a double,
Words that are weighty with nothing but trouble:
Tinker to Evers to Chance.

NEW YORK, May 5—Baseball writers of the period became lyrical about the most famous double play combination in baseball history — Tinkers to Evers to Chance.

Andy Coakley, the old pitcher who has coached Columbia for 30 years, and many others who knew the club well consider the Chicago Cubs that were sparked by Joseph B. Tinker, John Joseph Evers and Frank Le Roy Chance the greatest that ever took the field.

Frank Chance, the Peerless Leader, guided them to four National League pennants in five years—1906-07-08-10—and made Charles Webb Murphy rich.

Joe Tinker, Johnny Evers and Chance could hit, run, field, and, above everything else, think quickly in the heat of battle.

They captured the public's imagination, perhaps did more than any other trio to put baseball in the more important money.

NOT ON SPEAKING TERMS

Throughout one long spell, while they were knocking North Side fans out into the aisles, Tinker and Evers didn't speak, but that fact did not interfere with their brilliance.

Tinker, who led all the league's shortstops in fielding in '06 and '08, stood five feet 9 and weighed 175 pounds.

A right-hand batter, Tinker sawed off the ends of Wildfire Schulte's bats. They appeared to be little more than a broomstick in his hands. He left a lifetime average of no more than .262, but was a clutch hitter, particularly effective against the great Christy Mathewson. He is especially renowned for breaking up games in which Matty appeared to be unbeatable.

Evers the Trojan was one of the most distinctive players of the game. He stood no more than 5 feet 10, weighed only 158 pounds, yet he played more than 120 games for nine campaigns.

In 1914, when he was thought to be through, he teamed with Rabbit Maranville to sweep the Boston Braves to the pennant and four straight victories over the vaunted Athletics in the World Series.

Evers the Crab was the nervous, hyper-aggressive type. One look at his fiaming face and you knew he wouldn't hesitate to speak his piece.

A left-hand batter who could drag the ball well, he got to first base with the speed of a desert wind. He twice hit more than .300 when it was a distinction to finish in the charmed circle.

Evers covered a wide range, threw from any position, was a wonder on the pivot.

Head always up, it was Evers who, in all the excitement, noticed that Fred Merkle did not touch second base in the celebrated bonehead play of 1908, called for the ball, threw the race into a tie on its final day and the Cubs into a play-off that led them to a third consecutive World Series.

CHANCE A CATCHER

Chance was a big, rawboned, bowlegged man standing 6 feet 1 and weighing 195 pounds. Without the physical advantages of being left-handed at the position, he ranks with the top first baseman, and was the boss all the way along the line.

Chaance came up as a catcher and the feet that he was so frequently injured undoubtedly had something to do with Frank Selee's switching him to first. Chance, perhaps, was injured more than any other player of the game. He repeatedly spiked himself. He was absolutely fearless and could not seem to get out of the way of a pitched ball. No batter was hit by pitchers oftener, and balls that struck him on the head contributed to his death long after impairing his hearing.

Tinker to Evers to Chance.

C. R. Nash Wins Barney Morrison Shooting Medal

C. R. Nash of the Killam rifle team won the Veterans' Volunteer Reserve Barney Morrison Gold Medal competition when he shot a score of 209 plus 19 X. P. H. Congdon, Irma; C. R. Holgate, Edmonton; D. A. Jones, Leduc and O. R. Hannah, Wainwright each shot 200 plus 18 X to force a deciding shoot for the Silver Medal.

O. V. Rogers, Edmonton, 200, 17X; J. Horne, Leduc, 200, 17X; E. Letourneau, Leduc, 200, 14X; H. Taylor, Edmonton, 199, 17X; A. Miller, Wainwright, 199, 12X; L. Rapier, Killam, 199, 12X; K. J. Cotton, Wainwright, 199, 11X; A. R. Bjornene, Calgary, 199, 6X; A. M. Allen, Edmonton, 199, 12X; J. H. Sandilands, Edmonton, 199, 11X; R. C. Moore, Red Deer, 199, 10X; C. E. Tupper, Edmonton, 199, 9X; C. B. Gow, Edmonton, 198, 12X.

$100,000 to $500,000, according to who may be believed—into left field, but they think they've found the plug for the rathole at last.

The plug is young Eric Tipton. Unlike half his predecessors, Eric can field acceptably. Unlike the other half he can hit. At least he's batting .300 so far.

Walkrites Lose Star Pitcher

Annabelle Thompson Will Go To Chicago For Pro Tryout

SECOND Edmonton softball pitcher to be offered a tryout for the newly organized girls' pro league, Annabelle Thompson, of Walkrites, champions of western Canada, is leaving for Chicago about May 14.

Annabelle has been asked to report on May 17, according to the wire she received yesterday. This is the same date that the other girls from Canada and the United States are due to commence their tryouts at Wrigley Field, home of the Chicago Cubs.

Helen Nicol of the Army and Navy Pats is also signed up and it is understood Marion McConnel, who plays first base for the Walkrites is being tendered a contract as well. The girls from western Canada, including five from Regina Bombers, two from both Saskatoon and Moose Jaw will all meet in Winnipeg and will journey to Chicago together.

EDMONTON PRODUCT

The 19-year-old Walkrite chucker has always lived in Edmonton and this will mark her seventh season in organized ball. She has ranked as one of the leading pitchers in the province for the past four years, her record for 1942 being 12 wins as against two losses.

In addition to being a member of last year's western champions Annabelle was with Buffaloes when they won the Alberta title in 1940.

Starting out with Red Heads in her first year of league ball, the Walkrites' chucker played the next two seasons with Orange Crush team and then was two years with the Buffaloes. She joined the Walkrites when the club was organized by Murray Saidman last year.

BATTING AVERAGE .340

In addition to being an exceptionally good pitcher Miss Thompson has always been one of the most consistent hitters in the city league, her average last season being .340. She also fields her position well, both while pitching and when playing in the outfield, where she is usually found when not in the box due to her batting prowess.

Attendance High In Coast League

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(AP)—The Pacific Coast Baseball League has struck an attendance bonanza.

More than 88,000 persons attended the first week of baseball on the coast, says President W. C. Tuttle. That first week of prosperity topped last season's by more than 25,000. And last week paid admissions nudged the 80,000 mark.

San Francisco has lured the largest crowd in the eighth-team league. The Seals and Hollywood played before 15,422 in their season's opener.

A close race is under way with Los Angeles leading by a half-game. The San Diego club is in second place and Portland, San Francisco and Oakland are giving hot pursuit.

Manager-Coach Pie Murray Saidman stated last night that while he was very sorry to lose his star pitcher, he nevertheless was gratified that her ability had been recognized.

He also said he believed the new pro league would result in greater interest being displayed in softball by young players as it afforded a wonderful opportunity for advancement.

LUCKY if you have one
WISE if you look after it!

IF you had a bicycle, especially a C.C.M., when this war broke out and tied up our car tires and gasoline, you were just plain lucky.

But you'll need to be more than lucky to keep your bicycle in good condition for "The Duration"—you will need to be wise—you will need to look after your bicycle in every regard mentioned below.

1. Keep the front hub bearings properly adjusted so that the wheel will revolve freely. Oil frequently with machine oil.
2. Oil the pedals frequently.
3. Keep the brake cleaned, lubricated and adjusted so it will function quickly and smoothly. This should be done by your bicycle dealer.
4. Oil and keep freely adjusted your steering column.
5. Use special chain lubricant to keep this mass of moving parts in easy-running form.
6. Oil frequently the main hanger, to which the pedal cranks are attached, as this is the power plant of the bicycle.
7. Always keep your tires inflated hard. Avoid wheel skidding and hitting curbs and stones. Check wheel alignment frequently to save tire wear.
8. The above servicing can be done best by your experienced C.C.M. dealer who has the proper lubricants and tools for the job.

C.C.M. COASTER BRAKE
An improved brake by C.C.M., faster in forward drive-action, more powerful in its smooth, quick stop than any of its predecessors. Built of super-strong, hardened steels to meet the needs of today's cyclists.

C.C.M. HANGER
The parts of this most important section of a C.C.M. bicycle are machined, hardened and finished with extreme accuracy so that you may get the most out of your pedalling action.

SERVICE PARTS FOR YOUR C.C.M.
In order that C.C.M. bicycles may be kept in good repair, C.C.M. are maintaining the best possible service on genuine C.C.M. parts and safety accessories by apportioning their available stocks to the 2,300 C.C.M. dealers across Canada. Every dealer gets his full quota in proportion to the parts available.

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y., May 5—As dawn routed darkness from the Ramapo hills this morning, lightweight champion Beau Jack—wearer of the current "big money crown"—began training for his first defense of the coveted diadem.

The 22-year-old Negro with the Indian profile jogged six miles through the rose-tinted mists beside the slumbering lake. It was his first ringwork at Joe Murchio's palatial camp—the training resort where Sgt. Louis groomed for many title battles.

When Louis conditioned here, he was the world's big-money fighter, and the heavyweight division was the field in which prominent leather-tossers could reap a golden harvest. But war's call to service has re-shuffled the boxing deck and left the lightweights as aces in the gamble for ring riches. The 135-pound division now has the most attractive talent left in competition—followed by the featherweight and welterweight classes, in that order.

TORONTO, May 5.—(CP)—The newly - organized all - American Girls' Professional Softball League, operating in Chicago, is playing havoc with some Canadian teams. Outstanding Toronto players have been signed and a scout is touring the prairies.

Latest Toronto girl to sign is Thelma Golden, strike-out queen of Sunnyside pitchers. Bobbie Rosenfeld of the Toronto Globe and Mail says Thelma signed for a tasteful—$100 a week. Gladys Davis and Helen Sandiford of Toronto signed previously.

Western reports say May Baker, Doris Bau and Millie Warwick of Regina Bombers have taken the Jump to the Chicago circuit. Helen Nicol, 20-year-old Edmonton pitcher, is also on the list. Others expected to try out include, Mrs. Olive Little, Ethel McCready, Kay Bennett, Dorothy Hunter, Lucella MacLean and Muriel Caben.

Round and about:

Frank Colman, the London, Ont., boy currently playing right field for Pittsburgh Pirates in the National Baseball League, is one of five brothers, all of whom once played for the same team in London. . . . Four members of the Timmins Holman Pluggers, Ontario juvenile hockey champions, are slated for professional trials next fall—Allen Stanley and Pete Babando with Boston Bruins and Eric Prentice and George Defelice with Buffalo Bisons.

Incidentally:

Death of George Pringle, former University of British Columbia basketball star, with the R.C.A.F. overseas inspired his friends to establish the George Pringle Memorial bursary fund. The goal is $6,500 and already $5,577 has been contributed. A $200 bursary will be awarded at U.B.C. this year.

Sports . . . . Roundup

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Sales talk: Latest "model" dope in professional football circles is that Lieut. Dan Reeves is ready to sell his Cleveland franchise if anybody will meet his price. . . . And if he doesn't sell, he'll move the club to Cincinnati, Boston or Los Angeles when he resumes operation after the war.

Today's Matinee:

When the Phillies beat Curt Davis last week they showed, at least, that they can shake off the jinxes from the Gerry Nugent era. They hadn't done the trick since 1939 and only once in 16 decisions since Curt left Philadelphia for Chicago in 1934.

Guest Star:

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News:

"Baseball players who are afraid they'll be too weak to play without their usual steaks might hunt up Barney Ross and see how the Marines managed it on Guadalcanal."

(Editor's Note: "Those Marines weren't playing, Bob).

Service Dept.

Coach Chesty Walker, of Phillips, Tex., high school, is looking for a pair of size E football shoes to fit a 200-pound lineman who turned up for spring practice with nothing to drill in but work brogans. Most coaches we know would settle for one 300-pounder, with or without shoes.

The eohippus, or four-toed horse, was the earliest known stage in the ancestry of the horse.

GIRLS

"George, dear, I'll have to use your shoe ration stamp. I'm COMPLETELY out of shoes!"

When Louis conditioned here, he was the world's big-money fighter, and the heavyweight division was the field in which prominent leather-tossers could reap a golden harvest. But war's call to service has re-shuffled the boxing deck and left the lightweights as aces in the gamble for ring riches. FOLLOW LOUIS' TRACKS

ACCORDING, it was pugilism's new "Golden Boy"—Beau Jack, the former bootblack of Augusta, Ga.—who followed Joe Louis' track over the Ramapo trail this morning, as he began training for his first defence against Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia Negro, at New York's Madison Square Garden, May 21.

Beau Jack—in warm black cap, blue sweater, khaki breeches and heavy boots—returning from the road to the same white cottage on the hill where Louis used to live. It's the same cottage, but the atmosphere is different. A feeling of uncertainty permeates the camp. Even to his handlers, Beau Jack still is a question mark—despite his string of 16 straight victories.

The young Negro and his entourage came to Murchio's a week ago, but not until yesterday did he start training. During the past week, he intensified his efforts to build up energy. He ate well, absorbed plenty of sunshine and fresh air, fished and hiked a bit too—just enough exercise to keep from getting heavy. He scaled 140 pounds yesterday.

FIGHTS MONTGOMERY MAY 15

BEAU JACK has been storing up energy since his last bout—with veteran Henry Armstrong on April 2. In that close engagement and in a previous brawl with Fritzie Zivic, the dynamite Young Negro seemed to run out of gas in the later going. They were 10-rounders, but on May 21 he must stop 15 beats against brown-skinned Montgomery, a rugged durable opponent who specializes in body punching—Jack's anathema.

Because of recent competition, Montgomery will be sharp for his first title chance. Should it be Jack beat the Philadelphian, he'll find his future progress challenged by other dangerous opponents —Pte. Johnny Greco, Sammy Angott, Henry Armstrong (who still can make the weight), Slugger White, Willie Joyce, Juan Zurita, etc.

As the "Golden Boy" jogs through the morning mists, we wonder where the trail will lead him.

Spud Chandler Hurls Yankees To 7-3 Win Over White Sox

NEW YORK, May 5 — (AP) — New York Yankees squeezed out a 4-3 victory over Boston Red Sox yesterday to continue half a game in front of Cleveland Indians in the American League. It took a ninth-inning run on two hits and a long fly by Johnny Lindell, however, to capitalize on the six-hit hurling of Spud Chandler, who gained his second victory of the season.

The Yankees made nine hits and bunched five of them for three runs off Joe Dobson in the first two innings.

Because Rookie George Stirnweiss was hit on the elbow by a pitched ball in batting practice, Oscar Grimes played shortstop for New York and led off with a single in the first inning.

Philadelphia, May 5. — (AP) — Rookie Jess Flores pitched a three-hitter Tuesday as the Athletics defeated Dutch Leonard and Washington Senators 3-1. It was the second victory in three starts for the little Mexican.

Flores now has worked 32 2-3 innings, yielding a total of 11 hits and three runs. After losing a two-hitter to the Red Sox, 1-0, he hurled 15 2-3 innings against Washington a week ago and won in the 16th, 3-1.

TIGERS EDGE OUT 4-3 VICTORY OVER BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—(AP)—Detroit Tigers chased veteran southpaw Al Hollingsworth to the showers in less than two innings Tuesday, scoring four runs in the meantime, then hung on for dear life to eke out a 4-3 American League triumph over St. Louis Browns.

The Browns were held effectively by Virgil Trucks until the seventh frame when they pounce" on him for three successive singles and an outfield fly for two runs. They scored another on a walk and Chet Laabs' double in the eight. Trucks was replaced by Dizzy Trout who held the St. Louis club hitless in the last inning.

BAGBY TAKES THIRD STRAIGHT FOR CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, May 5.—(AP)—Lanky Jim Bagby won his third straight victory for Cleveland with a steady five-hit 2-1 American League decision yesterday over the punchless Chicago White Sox.

It took a quartette of fifth-inning singles of Bill Dietrich for the Indians' winning run, since Ray Mack and Lou Boudreau both were thrown out at the plate by Taurman Tucker, rookie Chicago centerfielder, while attempting to score from second and one-baggers by Orris Hockett and Ken Keltner. Domestic Owl

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 5.—(AP)—A barred owl living in a tree hollow near the home of R. A. Rose here has hatched two sets of chicken eggs and now is sitting on her third. Rose reported that the owl "seems satisfied" with hatching the eggs and, on the first batch, brought to the nest a dead mouse, thinking the chicks to be her own.

It has been shown medically that a child grows most rapidly in the summer, slowest in the winter.

Second Chance Is Given Suspended Bowlers by A.B.C.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Unlike organized baseball, which treat dishonest players as persons who haven't existed and obliterates their records from the books, the American Bowling Congress publishes in its annual record book the names of suspended keglers and accounts of their violations, most of which are for the misappropriation of prize funds.

The A.B.C. blacklistings bar participation in organized leagues only until such time as restitution is made, good faith re-established and there is a favorable recommendation by the local group.

The antics of a Battle Creek bowler, who took a spin of money without authority and left the city for parts unknown, are described. Following a jubilant description of his absconder, the A.B.C. adds, as an afterthought: "He has a pleasant personality." The kind of pal, no doubt, to whom you would entrust the keys to your wine cellar.

TWO GET SENTENCES

As related, most of the suspensions are the result of culprits handling too loosely money which is not their own, but there is sharp practice in bowling, too.

Two Chicago bowlers were sentenced to a year apiece, one for bowling under an assumed name, the other for being an accessory. The story, no doubt, is that of a good bowler faking his name and average to win a first prize.

A Mineola, N.Y., member is charged with falsifying his average for his own benefit, misrepresenting his ability to obtain better classification. It is barely possible that this fellow wanted a shot at richer prize money.

A Cleveland bowler was suspended for collecting prize money and failing to distribute shares to teammates; for misconduct and destruction of property while engaged in a contest. The latter could be marking and doctoring the runway with trick heels or otherwise as a means of handicapping the other side.

USED ADVERTISING MONEY

A Rock Island member was arrested for working a confidence game in connection with a bowling publication, using money collected for advertising.

A Sayreville, N.J., secretary got life because he failed to turn over equipment and property of the association. A Parkersburg, W.Va., man was expelled because he issued $1,200 in cheques much livelier than the balata baseball. Members are set down for failure to pay dues, failure to meet schedules, etc. Suspensions range from one year to life.

Following the list of violators and violations is a list of these reinstated.

It is a compliment to bowling that its parent organization publishes names and offenses without assuming that a membership card makes all members angels and pillars of the community.

Bowling gives 'em a second chance.

Convicts to Mail U.S. Ration Books

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(AP)—Eight million Californians will be hearing from San Quentin prisoners soon. The prisoners will save the government an estimated $1,000,000 in labor and warehouse costs by mailing out war ration book No. 3.

Takes Time Off As Fireman

Hagg Starts Training For Classic Race With Greg Rice

By JACK FLEISCHER

STOCKHOLM, May 5 — (BUP) — Gunder Hagg, the Swedish shaft of light who blazed his way to nine world records last year, started on a four-day week at the Favle fire department Tuesday in deference to his training for an anticipated visit to the United States and a classic race with Greg Rice, America's top distance runner.

The flying fireman began his training program with a 7,200-metre victory in a cross-country race when he reached the finish line in 22 minutes, 59.2 seconds, outdistancing his nearest rival by 80 yards, but announced that he was disappointed with the race.

"I'm not in as good form as I was last year because I haven't been training as much," Hagg said. "From now on I'll train three times a week—on my days off as a fireman."

He added that he hadn't worked out on a cinder track yet this year but that he intended to "very soon."

Hagg, to whom a trip to America means book meeting Rice and investigating the perplexities of the United States, said he still was uncertain about the plans.

"I haven't received any definite word," he said, "but if it should develop, I want to be certain of a return ticket, because it would be most annoying to be in the United States if Sweden, meantime, became involved in the war."

In New York, Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the National A.A.U. said Hagg probably would leave for the United States by the end of the month. The U.S. Army Air Force was reported to be arranging priorities for plane passage for Hagg.

Hagg insisted that his trip be divorced from political considerations of any sort and he said he did not feel free to run in any events which would carry such an implication, such as races for the benefit of war agencies.

"I am and will be strictly neutral," he said. "I want to be equally welcome in the so-called Axis countries as in Allied countries. If I do not go to the United States, I intend to run in Finland in July.

"If I am selected for running against Rice—if American experts claim he can beat me, it may well be so. However, you can rest assured I'll do my best if I get there."

Football Chosen Best Conditioner By Armed Forces

LOUISVILLE, May 5.—Comdr. Gene Tunney, the muscle jerker, may not agree, but in a poll by the North Carolina Navy Pre-Flight School, football is chosen unanimously as the most valuable sport for developing endurance, agility, coordination, fighting spirit, confidence and poise.

Ranking behind football, in the order named, are track and field, boxing, swimming and baseball.

Football is played all year 'round at the Navy Pre-Flight Schools.

Having excelled in football and coached it, Comdr. Tom Hamilton, who heads the athletic program of the Navy Pre-Flight Schools, knows that the game builds well.

Lieut. Larry Mullins, head of the competitive sports program at the Iowa branch, placed first among all officers at the school in a physical efficiency test and was a finalist in the station's handball tournament.

And it has been 13 years since Fullback Moon Mullins danced out of the Notre Dame box to carry the ball for Knute Rockne's last team.

Many minor leagues folded, but Ray Dumont once more assures the professional baseball people that they have nothing to fear about future playing material.

President Dumont of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress says 80,000 teams will officially open the sandlot season, May 2. He shortly will announce sites of 300 district and 48 state championship tournaments leading up to late August to the grand finals, the National championship show in Wichita.

There are fewer town clubs, but they have been replaced and the total made larger by service and war plant teams.

More baseball than ever will be played this season . . . in this country and all along the far-flung battle fronts . . . in places where the game has never before been seen.

The Japs chucked baseball because it is an American game, but our men will return it to the Land of the Setting Sun—with weapons considerably more formidable than Louisville Sluggers.

Canadian Hoop Finals Start at Coast Tonight

VANCOUVER, May 5.—(CP)—A doubleheader to decide the men's and women's Canadian basketball titles will get under way here tonight with Winnipeg Atomahs taking on Vancouver Hedlunds in the feminine tucket and Windsor Patricks tangling with Victoria R. C.A.F. for the men's championship.

Basketball fans who favor the fast, driving type of game rather than the slow and methodical are expected to get their fill in both contests. The Victoria squad can turn on the razzle-dazzle and word preceding Patricks, who arrived this morning, is that they are ready to match the fliers in everything.

Atomahs, who arrived Tuesday morning, promised to open up with everything against Hedlunds, by whom they were defeated in a fast and bruising series last year at Winnipeg.

Local experts rate the Windsor team as the best to represent Eastern Canada since the same city's Alumni took Canadian honors in 1936 and won the right to represent the Dominion in the Olympic games, where they lost out in the finals.

A veteran of that squad is the "old man" of the present team, 32-year-old Jimmy Stewart, who is making his fourth trip to the West coast in search of basketball honors.

The Western champions arrived from Victoria Monday afternoon and will have a couple of light workouts before opening the best-of-five series tonight. Their coach, Charlie McLachlan, also president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association said they were in fine shape and that he would use his first string for the starter.

Patricks boast two negro stars, Gordon Lawson, handy either as forward or guard, and Fred Thomas, currently the "hottest" man on the team, though only 19 and still in high school. He plays centre and is considered the best rebound man on the squad.

Coach Frick said he expected it would be out into next week-end.

"We hope to make the change Saturday," Frick explained, "but that depends upon whether the shipments arrive in time. We won't make the change until all the clubs have been supplied with balls for their week-end games. We don't make it definite, I wouldn't want the fans to come out expecting to see a lively ball and then be disappointed."

The only difference between the corrected ball and the dead model with which the major leagues started the 1943 season is in the rubber cement used between the layers of yarn. The cement used in the "clunk" ball was made from a poor grade of reclaimed rubber—there's no good reclaimed rubber available any more, according to Lou Coleman, who is in charge of baseball production for A. G. Spaulding and Brothers. The cement soaked into the yarn and hardened, making the wool brittle. The new ball contains a fresh cement that remains soft and sticky.

Major Leagues' 'Corrected' Ball To Be Used Soon

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—The "corrected" baseball with a little jackrabbit added, is ready for distribution to the major league clubs.

The newest of the new baseballs was put on display yesterday in the office of Ford C. Frick, National League president, and between long distance calls Cincinnati and Pittsburgh to spread the glad tidings Frick said he expected it would be out into next week-end.

"We hope to make the change Saturday," Frick explained, "but that depends upon whether the shipments arrive in time. We won't make the change until all the clubs have been supplied with balls for their week-end games. We don't make it definite, I wouldn't want the fans to come out expecting to see a lively ball and then be disappointed."

WHEN Johnnie left for war he said "so long" to his family, his fellow workers, and his friends.

What did we say?

We said, "Good luck, Johnnie boy—we'll keep things going while you're gone, and we'll keep the stuff coming."

Now — the PUSH IS STARTING and Johnnie is calling for "the stuff."

Ever-Bearing Strawberries Up to Scratch

HANNA—A patch of "ever-bearing" strawberries owned by Mrs. Horace Hardcastle of Riest have just about earned their name. The patch was blooming in April and Mrs. Hardcastle is expecting to serve her family a luscious strawberry shortcake almost any time now. That is, if there is no heavy frost.

Work Proceeding On East Highway

MINBURN.—The provincial government road surveyor visited here recently and purchased from the council a piece of land east of town which will be used to straighten out the new highway along that stretch.

The work on the new highway has begun at Stony Creek about two miles east of Manville and it is expected that the highway will reach Minburn sometime this fall.

Jack Nairn, a farmer north of town for the past 35 years has sold his half section to Fred Anderson at a purchase price of approximately $4,000. Mr. Nairn will live in town. . . . Jack McDuffie, has sold his farm and will take over the blacksmithing business formerly operated by Ed Huffman. The latter is now working on the Alaska highway.

School Students Present Play

GRANDE PRAIRIE.—More than $100 was raised for war services when the Grande Prairie high school dramatic club presented a three-act comedy "The Improper Henry Propper", recently.

Under the direction of Miss Evelyn Roberts, the play, although written for adults, was well presented and the actors found the audience responsive.

Several offers have been made to the Dramatic club to present the play to out-of-town theatres. Among these being Wembley, Sexsmith, La Glace, Hythe and, under the auspices of the Kinsmen club, at Dawson Creek, B.C. All proceeds will be used for war charities.

40 Bushels to Acre Is Yield Minburn Wheat

MINBURN — In contrast to many farmers throughout the province, Ed. Codd, who farms 12 miles south of here, has had excellent results with his standing grain which, when threshed recently yielded 40 bushels to the acre. He expects it will grade No. 3.

Threshing in this district is almost complete and on the whole the yield from wheat has been good although mice, rabbits and birds have done considerable damage to oats and barley.

Animals Lost In Clive Fire

CLIVE.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the barn and contents on the farm of I. R. Calvert at an estimated loss of $1,500. About 50 hogs, of which 30 were ready for market, sheep lambs, turkeys and chickens were burned in addition to a car owned by W. Hill. The farm is close to the Lacombe- Stettler highway.

Until a substitute teacher can be found, pupils at Clive school are having a holiday, their teacher, Miss J. Filipkowsky having been taken ill during the recent holidays. . . . Miss M. Will was guest of honor at a recent shower. . . . Mrs. C. McWilliam was a recent visitor to Edmonton.

Officer Tells Of Resistance Inside Europe

Poles who defied their German oppressors, Yugoslavians who fought the Nazi invaders, Norwegians and Dutch and Belgians who escaped from the enemy-occupied territory, were among the things recounted by members of the Edmonton Canadian Club by Major H. C. Scott at a club luncheon held in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday, when he spoke on "After Three Years."

Major Scott, who spent three months in Great Britain last summer, and who had visited Europe on many occasions prior to the outbreak of the present war, told of the first-hand information he had received from patriots who had escaped from Norway, Holland, Yugoslavia, Belgium.

MANY MAKE EFFORT

"Many make the effort; all do not make the goal," he said, in reference to people escaping from these countries and making their ways to England.

He told of a Norwegian officer he had met. For no reason, the man who had been a policeman in Norway was thrown into prison, tortured, and six months later, released—still without explanation. The officer eventually landed in England, where he was able to tell of certain important activities.

Still other information came from escaped Dutchmen and Belgians. Escapes from these two countries to England continue, said the speaker.

Of the Poles, Major Scott declared not one of them ever willingly obeyed the Germans, but they do continue to defy them. In the mountains about Yugoslavia, he was told, fighting against the Axis powers still goes on.

"DOWN" ON BULGARIA

Major Scott, who was called to the intelligence department at Ottawa at the outbreak of the present conflict, and later made liaison officer between the Canadian and Allied armies, was "down" on Bulgaria. Of that Balkan state, he spoke deprecatingly; of Czechoslovakia, he spoke eloquently.

In France, he continued, there is lack of unity, even today, and added, "You can't give a nation liberty; it must find it."

It is easy to condemn France, he said, but our attitude changes when we remember our own shortcomings.

Major Scott reviewed Europe as it was before the war, using large maps of the world to illustrate how the war clouds had risen over that land and over the Pacific.

Major Scott, termed one of the country's outstanding speakers, and who had addressed the Edmonton Canadian Club before, was highly commended at the conclusion of his discourse. W. A. MacDonald presided over the meeting.

Women Planning Assistance For Big Loan Drive

Next week Edmonton will launch a campaign unique in the history of national war finance when the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau will take a leading hand in the successful promotion of Ladies' Week, it was announced Wednesday by R. E. Staples, chairman of the Edmonton committee in charge of the Fourth Victory Loan.

Hundreds of women residents of this city will take a hand during the closing stages of the campaign in making certain that every household in the city will have an opportunity to purchase bonds.

Briefly, this is how campaigning will be done during Ladies' Week. The city is sored off for ARP purposes into 20 districts. Each block has a leader. It will be the responsibility of each block leader to call at every home in the block, not to sell bonds but merely to pay a visit to each family for purposes of discussing the Victory Loan campaign, answering questions that may be asked, and giving information about the free bonds to be given away at the conclusion of the campaign. As a result of this discussion the block leader will then inform the regular bond salesman of the results obtained and the prospects to be expected.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION

Although the work of each block leader in visiting neighbors may seem insignificant in itself, when multiplied by thousands its develops into a tremendous contribution to this campaign. The saving of salesmen's time as a result of this volunteer effort on the part of the Citizen's Volunteer Bureau is in itself an outstanding effort that is greatly appreciated by campaign officials. Bureau and Victory Loan officials join in the appeal to citizens of Edmonton to give each and every block leader a warm greeting. They remind you that the visitor is a volunteer worker who has Canada's interest at heart. Citizens need not tell of the number of bonds or the size of bond they wish to buy, but merely to state whether or not they wish that a salesman call at the house. The reward to the block leader is the knowledge of a valuable piece of work being well done and that she is backing up our fighting men.

THE FIRST TIME

This will be the first time that all the block leaders in Edmonton will be working together in one huge drive—the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. The Citizens' Volunteer Bureau working in close co-operation with the ARP. block leaders have made a fine contribution to the war effort in the past. Practically the whole city has had salvage drives by zones with such splendid results that the salvage depot has been working to capacity since the first drive last January. The money for which the salvage is sold is returned to war services in the city.

Books and magazines have been collected for servicemen's libraries and various articles have been collected for the Red Cross Superfluity Shop. Woolen materials also have been collected for "Bundles for Britain." All the above work has been done with the districts working separately, but now they have joined in this most important task as a unit. In this way the men and women in Edmonton owe a debt of gratitude to each leader of her block, sector, or district in Edmonton.

Women Officers Of Canadian Corps Adds Support To Resolution

Members of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Corps Association, at the monthly meeting in the Masonic Temple Tuesday, unanimously approved a resolution of the Ex-Servicemen's Rehabilitation committee, urging the federal government to retain title to all war materials, ships, planes, shipyards, airports, hangars and repair plants and full title to any subsidized concern, at the close of the war.

—V—

The resolution further urges that the Dominion government retain title to equipment and plants until an advisory board of the Dominion government, with representation of ex-servicemen and women from all the services, fully explore possibilities of rehabilitating war veterans and war workers by the fullest use of established facilities.

APPROVED BY LEGION

The resolution is one that has already been approved of by the Edmonton branches of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Army and Navy Veterans of Canada and other ex-servicemen's organizations in the city.

The rehabilitation committee is made up of representatives of war veterans in Edmonton.

Following a short business session the large turnout enjoyed a concert, under the direction of Miss Mabel Stutt.

John Burr, Henry Atack Score Big Triumph in Joint Recital

John Burr, United States bass, formerly of the San Francisco Opera Company, and Henry Atack, pianist and organist, fused their talents Tuesday night and gave one of the few really distinguished and altogether admirable vocal and organ recitals that this waning season has brought forth.

Sponsored by First Presbyterian church choir and held in the church's auditorium, the recital drew a large audience. Enthusiasm for the artistry of both participants, individually and in combination, was at a high peak and was reflected in a large number of encores.

Mr. Burr, who was making his debut in concert here, revealed a splendid voice. It is manly and powerful, but sweet, even, and flexible and is resonant throughout its wide range. It avoids monotony in color.

He was completely successful in his delivery of his songs, always imbuing them with the necessary directness, simplicity and sentiment. A definite sense of style was evident at all times. His songs were all treated as separate entities, but the component parts of the program were so well knit together that a smooth-flowing performance resulted, revealing a well-developed sense of balance and proportion. Each song had a varied interpretation, but was never exaggerated to exceed the bounds of good taste.

ARIAS POPULAR

As was to be expected from one who had sung in grand opera, his arias were rightly on a large scale, each a part of a deft, individualized characterization. Sympathy with the chosen text, disciplined emotion, and ability to translate these into music, bespeak sound musicianship.

Mr. Atack, both as piano accompanist to Mr. Burr, and as organ soloist, was at his peak. His accompaniments proved once more that in this field he stands unsurpassed in this section of the country. His group of organ solos revealed the resources of the instrument anew and showed both his technical achievements and interpretive qualities.

Mr. Burr's numbers included Bois Epais, Lully; I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly, Purcell; Verdant Meadows, Handel; Vittoria, Vittoria mio Core, Carissimi; Verborgenheit, Wolf; Wie Melodien Zieht Es, Brahms; Aufenthalt, Schubert; With Joy the Impatient Husbandman, Haydn; Mighty Lord and King All Glorious, Bach; Non piu Andrai from The Marriage of Figaro, Mozart; Vous qui faites L'endormie from Faust, Gounod; and three Negro spirituals arranged by William Arms Fisher, Crucifixion, Black Sheep, Black Sheep and Ride On, King Jesus.

His encores included Tchaikovsky's None But the Lonely Heart; Albert Hay Malotte's setting of The Lord's Prayer; Victor Hely-Hutchinson's version of Mother Hubbard in the style of Handel and Robinson's Water Boy.

Mr. Atack played Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E Minor and Lemmons' Fanfare, with Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary and Schubert's Serenade as encores.—J. O.

Alberta Seeking Clarification on Employment Question

Ask United States Works Projects for War Effort Be Declared as "National"

A three-point submission to the National War Labor Board has been forwarded from the Alberta government, Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry, announced Wednesday. Such submissions had been requested by the national board, Mr. Manning said, and will be discussed at public meetings of the board, now being held at Ottawa.

The three main items of the Alberta submission follow:

1—That all American projects in Canada related to the war effort be declared "national" employment, and that all arrangements as to labor connected therewith be worked out by mutual agreement between United States authorities and the Canadian labor and state departments with the understanding that such arrangements will not discriminate against Canadian workers.

2—That the Dominion wage control order be amended to exempt from its application:

(a) all workers with one or more dependents whose rate of income is not in excess of $185 per month.

(b) all workers with no dependents whose rate of income is not in excess of $125 per month.

3—That the Dominion wage control order be amended to exempt from its application:

(a) minimum wage orders and fair wage orders made pursuant to provincial legislation.

(b) industrial standards agreements approved pursuant to provincial legislation.

Mr. Manning, who is chairman of the Alberta Regional War Labor Board, has sent the same recommendations to Ottawa on a previous occasion, when they were submitted to a conference early in March. At this conference, W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, and Clayton Adams, executive officer of the regional war labor board, were in attendance. At this time, the recommendations were also submitted to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

A full explanation of the proposals and reasons for their formulation, were given in the provincial legislature by Mr. Manning when speaking in the budget debate last March 9.

Getting Around with Jack DeLong

If it's a wet, cold, cloudy afternoon and the environment is getting you down, try an airplane ride. A human being no longer has to endure unpleasant conditions at earth level.

Just a mile or two above the dark, misty clouds is a marvelously different world. It is a world bathed in brilliant sunshine, with a sky of deepest blue. And beneath is a panorama not unlike the Rocky Mountain as viewed from the loftiest peak. There are summits and valleys and rolling foothills of white, brown and gray, with a darker mass away off in the distance.

And there's a false permanency and solidity to the scene below as the plane hurtles along 4,000 feet above.

It is hard to realize that the white peaks and the long, shaded valleys are made of nothing more substantial than white and gray vapor. Lighted by the blazing sun the upper surface of the cloud masses bear a striking resemblance to snow-covered mountains.

The silver lining of the dark cloud is on the top side.

Tuesday afternoon we were at the municipal airport in the office of Grant McConachie, general manager of C.P. Air Lines Western Lines. Mr. McConachie said that a party of doctors, keenly interested in the medical problems of wartime aviation, were going to make a brief flight.

He invited us to come along and we accepted.

"It's a pretty windy day and it may be mighty rough up in those clouds," warned Mr. McConachie.

"It would be funny if we have a load of sick doctors when we come

Cosmopolitan Club Planning Theatre Party

More smokes for the boys overseas this year. That was the unanimous decision of members of the Edmonton Cosmopolitan Club when they made plans to again sponsor their annual theatre party in aid of club charities. It will be held at the Rialto theatre on Tuesday, June 8 at 11:45 p.m.

Since last year's club activities, letters of appreciation have been steadily coming in from the boys overseas, expressing grateful acknowledgment of cigarettes received through their units. Each has paid a tribute to the Cosmopolitan Club for thoughtfulness of its members and supporters.

A typical example is this airgraph from Capt. N. D. Jenner: "Within the last few days free distribution of 50 cigarettes was made to each man in this unit. On my staff I have approximately 40, and many of these, I know, received cigarettes through the kindness of your club. On behalf of all of us, would you please convey our thanks to the members of your organization. I might add that the cigarettes were distributed at a very opportune moment as many of the boys hadn't received cigarettes from home for some months. It is my contention that if we keep the boys smoking and keep them busy, they very seldom get homesick."

Through Overseas Tobacco League in Toronto, Cosmopolitan cigarettes are sent out regularly with a card identifying the sender. This year's theatre party will feature a stage show, selected shorts and a prize drawing. The club urges your support and tickets may be obtained from club members.

Dog's Winnings Buy Bond

Dogs have been usefully employed in many war activities on the fighting fronts, and especially on northern war projects in Alberta and the North West Territories. Here is an Edmonton aristocrat in the dog world that is doing his bit. Wednesday his owner, Miss Mary Lee Tyrrell brought her champion Kerry Blue terrier, "Jerry Go Oil the Car Shanrahan," to Victory Loan headquarters to invest his winnings as the Edmonton and Saskatoon dog shows held recently. "Jerry" was judged the best terrier at the Edmonton show held recently, and was rated as the second best dog on exhibition at that show.

Around The Town

A coupe, 1937 model, was stolen from 9752 81 avenue, on Tuesday, M. Trotter, 11207 94 street, reported to police that evening. The car is painted green and bears an Alberta license No. 3588.

Dr. C. A. Raver left Tuesday for Blair, Nebraska, where he will attend the funeral of his brother, George Henry Raver.

The Scona Centre community league will hold its annual meeting May 28 in the Scona hall. 1943 officers will be chosen, and movies will be shown.

Police who responded to a complaint in a Jasper avenue block at 5:55 a.m. Wednesday, that a man was creating a disturbance there, ordered the man out of the premises. As the man was leaving, he tripped on the stairs, fell, and broke three panes of glass in the door. He was turned over to U.S. military police.

Reported missing in an official R.C.A.F. casualty list was FO. Terence James Marriott, Vancouver, who was formerly a resident of Edmonton. His father, who died three years ago, was Lt.-Col. G. W. Marriott, former manager of the south side branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. FO. Marriott's mother now lives in Vancouver. Here, the family home was on Saskatchewan Drive. The airman was listed as "missing, believed killed on active service after air operations."

Members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps will be taking their place with men behind anti-aircraft artillery as the result of a plan revealed by national defence headquarters to train women "plotter telephonists". Women in England have been used on similar duty for some months. While details of their work have not been revealed the operation is one requiring a high degree of intelligence and aptitude. Women selected must have Grade 10 in education, have ability at map-reading and mathematics and possess a "keen interest" in the work of artillery.

Annual ladies' night of the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce will take place at the Macdonald, Wednesday, May 12, when members entertain at a dinner-dance.

Communicable disease cases reported to the city health board for the week ending May 1 increased from 74 to 107 over the previous week, a report filed by Dr. G. M. Elliott, medical health officer, with the city commissioners disclosed. Measles cases increased by 19 cubella by 12, scarlet fever by seven and whooping cough by five.

Revenue in the city license department up to May 3 amounted to $55,927 compared with $57,918 for the same period of 1942, it was disclosed in a report filed by Thomas McCallum, city license inspector, with the city commissioners. Bicycle tags issued this year totalled 6,381 compared with 6,725 last year; dog licenses 3,777 against 4,039 in the 1942 period, and general licenses 1,867 compared with 1,881.

Participating in the Fourth Victory Loan 100 per cent are members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, who operate stations from this city to the Arctic circle. According to Capt. Noel White, paymaster for the army in Edmonton, each of the 58 members of this detachment has purchased a bond, with a total amounting to more than $14,000. Sonce last November, the men have bought $18,182 in bonds and war savings certificates.

The meeting of members of the North Alberta conference of the Alberta and British Columbia district of the Evangelical Lutheran church (Missouri Synod) is being held here with 25 ministers, three professors, and two teachers attending. Guest speakers at the service, Tuesday night, were the Rev. E. Neben of Rochfort Bridge, and the Rev. L. A. Gabert, Eckville. The session will continue Wednesday and Thursday, and are being held at Grace Lutheran church, 107 street and Jasper avenue.

Her 11-year-old daughter had been thrown from the bicycle she had been riding, and another girl, 15 years old, had been knocked down as the bicycle fell, breaking her nose, Mrs. Cowan, 9220 118 avenue, reported to city police Tuesday afternoon. The accident occurred, she stated, when two young boys at 82 street and 124 avenue, threw a stick at the cyclist. The stick went between the spokes of one wheel, and the rider was thrown off.

Hon. Major Arthur J. Hetherington, District Chaplain (R.C.) of Military District No. 13, is retiring in the near future from that post, owing to ill health, it was announced today at military headquarters in Calgary. He has held the appointment of R.C. Chaplain of Military District No. 13 since July, 1941. He served during the last great war with the Canadian Chaplain services from 1918 to 1919. It was also announced that Hon. Capt. N. J. Warske, formerly of Regina, Sask., and at present the R.C. Chaplain stationed at A16 C.I.T.C. Currie Barracks, Calgary, will perform the duties of District Chaplain (R.C.) temporarily pending appointment of a successor to Hon. Major Hetherington.

To discuss methods of guarding forests by means of a national forest policy, provincial ministers in charge of forestry administration in Canada are meeting Wednesday in Toronto. Representing Alberta is the Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs. Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, made the announcement and explained that at present the Dominion government has no share in forest protection, and it is the opinion of the Alberta government that the federal government should share in guarding the forests of Canada.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the employment of student labor on farms, as a means to alleviate the farm-labor shortage?

THE ANSWERS

H. E. NICHOLS, Alberta Farmers' Union: That depends on the type of student. While I don't think many city students will be of great assistance, the students from smaller country communities would undoubtedly be of assistance. The A.F.U. campaigned for the shift making holidays coincide more with the harvest season, in order to protect farmers' children. For this we were denied the farm children holidayed in July and August, and then had to stay out in September and October to help harvest. Then when they went back, they were so far behind, they became discouraged.

IRENE TAIT, student: I would like to work on a farm this holiday coming, and am going to. If I can't find anywhere to go, A girl hasn't the same chance as a boy, and can only help in the kitchen with meals, and like that, but if I can earn some extra money, I'm going to, and besides, it helps out.

JACK HUTCHINS, student: I'm going out to a farm to work this summer. It's down in the south, and we used to go there for holidays, and I'm not exactly "green," because I know the layout there. I'm going to save the money to go towards a university education, and in two years I should be able to make enough to give me a good start there. I only hope I'm worth what I'm going to be paid.

Gyro Club Playgrounds Will Open Empire Day: Active Year Anticipated

Official opening date for the three Gyro Playgrounds in Edmonton, maintained and operated through efforts of the Edmonton Gyro Club, has been set for Empire Day, May 24, according to an announcement made today by officials of the club.

The Gyro club community service effort is directed each year to the operation of the three playgrounds for the benefit of children under 13 years of age. Each playground has a trained, permanent supervisor in charge who organizes games and generally keeps a close watch on the kiddies during play hours.

The three parks are located in strategic sections of the city. Kitchener on the South Side, Patricia in the Norwood District and Tipton in the west end.

I. O. Manning is chairman of the playgrounds committee of the club. Other members are Austin Grant and Jack Usher.

Mr. Manning said Wednesday that the Gyro club feels the playgrounds will provide an added service to the community this year owing to the fact many mothers, whose husbands are in the armed services, are now out working in war jobs. Their children will be able to spend the recreational hours in the Gyro playgrounds under expert supervision.

TIME IN CITY

It is also felt that with the stringent gasoline rationing many families will be unable to get out to the lakes this summer with the result many children will have to spend vacation time in the city. "The playgrounds will necessarily fill a need unheeded want in this direction," Mr. Manning said.

Officers of the Edmonton Gyro club for the coming year are: President, S. N. Smith; first vice-president, Herb F. Hamly, second vice-president, Harry A. Wass, secretary, Roy Miller; treasurer, W. S. Johnstone; directors, I. O. Manning, Haigh E. Smith, Wm. Wain, past Lt. Governor of Gyro International District No. 8 is A. Russel Carter of Edmonton.

Armed Services Give Support Victory Loan

Soldiers of the Canadian Army (Active) serving in Alberta are rapidly nearing the quota set for them by national defence headquarters in the Fourth Victory Loan drive.

When returns from the 16 groups into which personnel have been placed for the drive were tabulated Monday evening the total purchase of bonds was $251,900 or 89 per cent. Returns are still coming in and it is expected the objective will soon be passed.

Members of the Veterans Guard of Canada serving at two internment camps in the province boosted the loan total to a marked extent Tuesday. Groups 11 and 12 which comprise the personnel on duty at two of the camps did well in the drive yesterday. Group No. 11 boosted its total $7,200 to $18,600 to exceed its quota by 22 per cent. Group No. 12 added $4,600 to its total to bring it to $16,750.

Corrie Barracks was another of the groups to make a big jump Tuesday. Men of the training centre added $5,300 to their total to reach $29,500. No. 133 Training Centre at Wetaskiwin boosted its purchases $2,600 Tuesday to come within $1,099 of its quota.

OTHER GROUPS

The two other Calgary groups—Nos. 1 and 2—both continue to make gains. Group one, which started with a quota of $20 a man and sailed it to $101 a man, has total subscriptions of 50,600. Group two added $3,400 to its total Tuesday to come within $300 of its quota of $290,600.

It took just two days for the personnel of No. 4 Initial Training School to go over the top of $30,000 Tuesday evening when the books were balanced it was found that $34,000 had been subscribed to the Fourth Victory loan.

Immediately a new objective of $60,000 was set, and now the canvassers at the school are surging forward to this objective, and hope to maintain a mopping-up rate of $10,000 daily until it is achieved.

Dies on Train

Arthur B. Meek, Macgregor, Manitoba, died suddenly Tuesday at 4.15 p.m., aboard Canadian National Railways passenger train No. 3 while travelling between Saskatoon and Edmonton. He was on his way to British Columbia with his wife and 10-year-old child, where he intended retiring. He was a former C.N.R. station agent at Macgregor. Death was caused by a heart attack. The body is at Howard & McBride's, funeral directors.

Former Member Of Legislature Dies in the City

A former Liberal member of the Alberta Legislative Assembly for Peace River, and an active worker in the development of the north country, William Archibald Rae, B.A., died in the city Wednesday morning.

Mr. Rae, who was a native of Thetford Mines, Que., graduated in law from the University of Toronto in 1898 he moved to Western Canada and went to the Peace River district in 1908 and settled at Grande Prairie.

It was in 1917 that he was elected as a Liberal member of the Alberta Legislature and he remained in that seat until 1921.

Always a great believer in the future of the north, Mr. Rae worked tirelessly to promote its development. He had been active in northern mining development and had taken an interest in the development of Northern aviation. He was widely known for his kindly nature and the assistance he was ever ready to give to those in need.

He was an active member of the Presbyterian church and was a well-known member of the Liberal party.

LEAVES FAMILY

To survive him Mr. Rae leaves his wife and one son, Sgt. Gordon F. Rae, on active service overseas. Four sisters, Mrs. W. J. Rattray of Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. W. A. Duff, of Drinkwater, Sask.; Mrs. O. H. Mannville, of Prince Albert, Sask., and Mrs. H. A. Cox of Edmonton also survive.

Funeral services, which will be private, will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Dr. Murdock MacKinnon officiating. Cremation will follow.

Youth to Appear Juvenile Court

A patrolman at 107 avenue and 124 street who found a glass broken in the door of the Avenue Service station at 2:05 a.m. Tuesday, notified the manager, Norman Hamilton, 10711 124 street. Just an hour previously another patrolman, discovering the broken door to a branch of Safeway stores, Ltd., at 124 street and 107 avenue, entered the building. Opening the door to the lobby, the constable found the smeared figure of a boy. In the boy's hands was a flashlight.

The boy, who said he was 14 years old, admitted having entered the service station, taking a flashlight, readily identified by the manager. The sum of $10 in currency, placed in a sock and laying on a shelf above the desk in the office of the establishment, had escaped the notice of the young culprit.

Nothing appeared to have been taken from the Safeway store, it was stated. The boy, brought from Canmore as a ward of the government, was placed in the care of an Edmonton citizen, but for the last two weeks had not been home. He said he had been sleeping underneath a canoe on the river bank during that time.

The boy will appear in the juvenile court on the charges of breaking, entering and stealing.

Minister Pins Wings on Son

HON. W. A. FALLOW

PO. MAURICE FALLOW

Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, has been accorded a distinction few Canadian fathers ever receive. Last week he pinned pilot's wings on the uniform of his son, Maurice, during an R.C.A.F. "wings parade" at Saskatoon. The young airman, who is 20 years old, received notification the same day that he had been commissioned as a pilot officer, and was posted to instructional flying in the east. PO. Fallow ranked second in his graduating class. He was educated at Public and High schools in Vermilion. Mrs. Fallow, and three children, Venetia, Bill, Jr., and Alex, were present at the ceremony.

C.N.R. to Open Buying Office In This City

The establishment by the Canadian National Railways of a purchasing office in this city was announced today by D. McK. Ford, vice-president in charge of purchases and stores. Mr. Ford also announced that E. A. Marples has been appointed purchasing agent in charge of this office. The appointment takes effect immediately. Mr. Marples was formerly commissary agent for the company here. He will report to T. P. Harris, purchasing agent at Winnipeg, who is in charge of departmental activities for the western region.

"The extremely heavy increase in purchases necessary for the war time operation of the National system has necessitated enlarging the scope of the purchasing department in the west," Mr. Ford said, in making the announcement. "Within the Alberta area our purchases last year amounted to a total of more $5,000,000 of which approximately $1,000,000 was for coal and $1,000,000 for lumber, ties and general materials. The opening of a general purchasing office in Edmonton will greatly facilitate the work of the department in the western region, particularly in Edmonton, which is one of the most important western centres of the Canadian National."

Mr. Marples entered the service of the railway in June, 1920, as a clerk in the hotel department at Winnipeg. He joined the commissary department in 1924 and was transferred to Edmonton in 1927. He became commissary agent at Edmonton under the purchasing department in 1930.

Debunker

There is a popular notion that immigrants are more often involved in crimes than are other people, but investigations of commissions show definitely that this is not true; that immigrants are more law-abiding than native-born citizens. Contrary to popular opinion, immigration into the United States decreased rapidly in the ten years preceding the outbreak of the second world war, and from 1932 to 1938 the number of aliens in the U.S.A. actually decreased by about 72,000. Most popular notions about all groups of people are bunk.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Price Ticket on Sin Has Not Been Altered

It Isn't Virtue and Decency That Are Old-Fashioned; High Principles Always Command Respect; Girls Must Be Good To Be Up-to-Date

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a very attractive and beautiful daughter who has had a good environment all her life and devoted parents, yet she does things and has ideas that distress her father and me very much. She resents our every attempt to control her and calls us "old-fashioned" when we try to keep her from doing things of which we disapprove, such as frequenting the apartment of two young men. I tell her that can lead to no good, and her answer is: "Oh, for Heaven's sake, Mother, can't you come up-to-date?" What can I do about it?

MOTHER.

Answer: You might tell your daughter that it isn't virtue and decency that are old-fashioned. It is wrong-doing. There hasn't been a new sin invented since the apple-eating incident in the Garden of Eden, and it would be amusing, if it were not so tragic, that the young people of today think that they are the first people in all the history of the world who ever strayed off of the straight and narrow path.

Everybody has always been doing it. There isn't a "frank" sex novel, hot from the press, whose plot isn't foreshadowed in the Ten Commandments, nor a vice that wasn't old when its warnings were thundered from Sinai. So why the youngsters think themselves so much more progressive and adventurous and sophisticated than their elders because they break the laws of God and man, and defy conventions and covet their neighbors' wives and have liaisons, is hard to say. It is all old stuff.

Girls think they show how ultra modern they are when they boast about how many cocktails they can drink and about getting lit up like a Christmas tree at a party, but there is nothing new in a drunken woman. Generation after generation has seen the poor, blear-eyed, straggle-haired, frousy creatures, stumbling along the streets muttering to themselves, or lying in the gutter.

Girls think they show how adventurous and high-spirited they are when they throw their caps over the windmill and have affairs with married men and other men who can't, or won't marry them. But there is nothing new in adultery. Prostitution is called the oldest profession in the world.

Girls think it is so modern to indulge in heavy petting parties and go to men's rooms, and off on week-ends with them. But there have always been girls who didn't count the cost of their fun. The woods are full of old maids who were good-time-Sallies whom men kissed but never married.

No. There is nothing new about sin. It is wrong-doing that is old-fashioned. Nothing has changed about that in all the ages. Nor has the price ticket on it been altered. Especially for women. They still have to pay, and pay, and pay, in shattered health, in lost reputations, often in heartbreak and shame.

It is goodness, it is virtue, it is modesty, it is high principles that command the respect and admiration of even the lowest man in the world that are new-fashioned. Let's hope that the modern girl will see that she has to be good to be up-to-date.

CURE FOR LONELINESS

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a guaranteed cure for lonely, nervous, neurotic women. It is getting out on a farm. I've tried it and I know it works. I was a business-women and I got tired of sitting at a desk, ruining my eyesight, my digestion and my disposition, and I gave up my job and got a place as housekeeper in the country. I gave up drugstore meals; no time for myself except Sundays, which I had to spend on hair, nails and wardrobe to keep myself presentable; no money at the end of the week because of the high cost of living, a hall bedroom in which I didn't even have space in which to change my mind.

In place of these advantages I got good food—fresh eggs, butter and milk and vegetables, a big room, and incidentally the best husband a woman could ask for. This latter I do not guarantee. But, after all, the farmer is one of the few men in these days who can afford to marry.

Of course the work is hard. I wash, clean, scrub, milk, churn, cook, wash dishes, help take care of the stock, but I do it when I want to, and working with cows, pigs and chickens is a thousand times more interesting than hammering at an inanimate typewriter. There is a great and growing need for women on farms, and I believe that if more women realized the compensation they would get they would be willing to give up town jobs and get out into God's great, good outdoors, where their efforts in raising food would be the best war work they could do.

MRS. C. P. H.

ANSWER: After reading this glowing bit of propaganda, what woman will be able to resist kicking over her office chair and grabbing her hat and making for the country? And especially will its appeal hit us where we live, in these days when rationed food and having to wrestle with ration coupons every time we go into a grocery have taken all the joy out of life and is fast driving us to the insane asylum or suicide.

Just think of the joy of being able to have all the milk and butter and chickens and eggs you can eat, with never a can in sight! And the chances of a good husband thrown in for lagniappe, as we say in New Orleans! It sounds like Heaven on earth.

But my correspondent says that she milks the cows and feeds the pigs just when she feels like doing it. If such is the case, I can only say that the habits of these animals have changed since the days when I lived on a farm. Then they were as importune about having their needs attended to as a $10-a-day boarder, and if old bossy wasn't milked on the dot and piggy-wiggies' meals were ten minutes late, they would raise ructions over the kind of service you gave them.

However, I am strong for the back-to-the-farm movement for women. It is a grand life, if you don't weaken.

WORKS IN OFFICE

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married girl, working in an office with two other girls. My employer, a married man, often asks me to lunch and to let him take me home in his car. Should I accept his invitations?

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER: Not unless you are looking for trouble. Buy your own sandwich and hop a bus. It is safer.

What To Do

The army frowns on women following their husbands to their camp. They implore you to wait until he has finished his camp training and gotten a more permanent post before you join him.

When you do join your husband plan on taking a minimum of the things you need. Don't go to the army post until your husband has found you a place to live. Bring your own electrical equipment, a barrel of dishes, ashtrays, cooking utensils but no more. Carry your sterling flatware with you in a silver chest fastened with a book strap. If you need linens, take the fewest possible pieces.

You will probably move many times before the war is over, so plan carefully — then cut the amount you planned to take in half and you will have an abundance of material to work with.

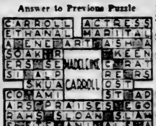
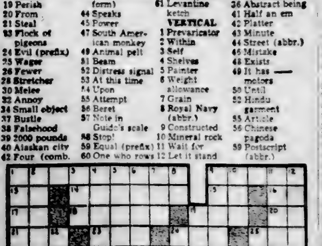
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Father: "I suggest we organize a family council and learn how to conduct our family affairs in a democratic way. You children are old enought to do that, aren't you?"

Father: "I don't think our schools are teaching enough democracy. That history teacher with the foreign name very likely isn't interested in teaching it, anyway."

A Buttoned Dirndl

Nothing is quite so bewitching and feminine as a dirndl. This Anne Adams button-front style, Pattern 4075, has pert charm. You'll like its pretty neckline and young sleeves. Why not make it in a bordered fabric and use a bright remnant for front panels?

Pattern 4075 is available in junior miss sizes, 11, 13, 15 and 17. Size 13 takes 3⅛ yards 35-inch fabric and ⅞ yards contrast.

Send your order to Pattern Department, The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont. Delivery of patterns may take longer than usual because of the heavy volume of mail.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

One of the most interesting discussions among experts is the play of certain combinations of cards. Of course in such discussions, all of the xperts are not in accord. Here is a hand in which the play of an honor combination plays the important part.

With the opening lead, North can count 11 tricks. His problem is to win two spade tricks while losing only one. Of course if West happened to hold three spades to the king-jack-seven, the correct

North: ♠ Q 10 8 ♥ A 5 4 ♦ J 10 3 2 ♣ A J 10

West: ♠ 6 5 4 ♥ Q 7 6 3 ♦ 8 6 ♣ 9 8 7 5

East: ♠ K J 7 ♥ J 10 9 8 2 ♦ 5 4 ♣ 4 3 2

South (Dealer): ♠ A 9 3 2 ♥ K ♦ A K Q 9 7 ♣ K Q 6

play would be to lead up to the queen. But the percentage play acknowledged by most experts is to lead the queen, and if it is not covered by the king, to let it ride. Then lead the ten-spot and again take the finesse against the jack.

In this hand, of course, East covered the queen with the king, dummy's ace won and a small spade was led, granteing a trick to the jack. Thus the contract was made.

War Kitchen

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Buy one pound of ground round steak and use it in a flavorsome meat loaf. Your extending protein is supplied by an egg and enriched bread crumbs. This recipe will provide dinner tonight for four and enough to be sliced cold for part of tomorrow's lucheon. This recipe, as well as Monday's lamb stew, Thursday's bean-cheese casserole and Friday's fowl were prepared by government experts to help all Canadians "eat the basic seve foods every day" and get the most l value and enjoyment out of the allotted meat points.

STUFFED MEAT LOAF

(Serves 6-8)

One pound ground beef, 3 tablespoons finely chopped beef, 3 table-spoons finely chopped green pepper, 4 tablespoons finely chopped onion, ½ tablespoon salt, ⅛ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon sage, if desired; ½ cup soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup water, tomato juice, or soup stock, 1 egg, stuffing.

Combine all ingredients. Mix well. Make a layer of one-half the meat mixture in a loaf pan. Cover with stuffing, press remaining meat mixture over the stuffing. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for one hour.

STUFFING

Two tablespoos butter or meat drippings, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ cup water or soup stock, 2 tablespoons chopped onio,n 2 tablespoons chopped celery, salt and pepper.

Melt fat. Combine all ingredients. Mix well.

Tomorrow's Menu

Dinner: Stuffed meat loaf; surprise baked potatoes, sweet and sour beets, bread, butter or fortified margarine, romaine salad, French dressing, apple pie, tea, milk.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

There are rules for preparing ordinary formulas for children whose digestive capacity is normal. One standard rule is to provide for the milk portion of the formula one ounce of evaporated or two ounces of fresh, pasteurized milk for each pound of baby's weight. Thus, a 7 pound child would 7 ounces of evaporated or 14 ounces of fresh milk every 24 hours.

In addition to this there must be water to provide for the baby's total fluid needs which are greater than the above amounts would provide and sugar to make the formula as nearly as possible like human milk which is far sweeter than cows milk.

Mrs. E. J. Feels that her 3-months-old baby girl has not gained enough. "She weighed over 8 pounds when we came home from the hospital and now she weighs only 12 pounds. I prepare 10 ounces of evaporated milk, 20 of water and 3 tablespoons of corn syrup. She seldom takes the six ounces I give her. She is fed five times a day."

It is surprising that a baby of this age and weight would not demand more food. She could have as much as 12 ounces of evaporated, 20 of water and 3 or 4 tablespoons of the corn syrup. Her weight is going up rather slowly considering her good gain at the hospital.

Suppose you look for her disinclination to drink the full formula in something beside the content of that formula. One of the handicaps to a complete enjoyment of the formula might lie in the size of the nipple hole. If it is too small the baby is exhausted before the full formula is gone. If the nipple is too large the baby gulps milk and may choke.

Obviously, it would be only the first which might be your difficulty. Tip the bottle. Note if the milk drops rapidly. If not try enlarging the hole. Stick an ordinary-sized needle into a cork or piece of soft wood. Hold by this handle and heat the needle end in a gas or candle flame. When red hot puncture the nipple hole sufficiently so that the milk can pass through easily.

Another reason for reluctance to partake of the full feeding may result from failure to burp the baby properly. When nursing or bottle feeding the baby swallows considerable air and gas is part of the digestive process. When the stomach is filled with the air or gas the baby has no appetite for food.

Once or twice during a nursing and always at the end of it, change the baby's position, lifting him up over your shoulder and patting gently until the bubble of air emerges. Some babies are hard to burp but even if it takes some time, persist until there is a satisfying belch. Then continue the feeding.

Our leaflet, "Sweet Milk Formulas" may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Minute Make-Ups

A beauty pickup does wonders to put you in the mood for fun. Cleanse the skin twice for real cleanliness. Pat lightly with skin freshener. Apply a mask cream made of vanishing cream and some real strawberry syrup. Lie down. Relax. Remove the mask. A few dabs of fresh vanishing cream before powder is applied—and your skin glows!

WASHINGTON.—I have just read a book by Ethel Gorham: "So Your Husband Has Gone to War." It is entertaining and full of good common sense advice. I think pages 122 and 123 should be read and reread by every woman. It is a universal experience and sometimes it isn't only what happens in marriage.

Sisters and brothers, mothers and sons, girls and their sweethearts have sometimes found that furloughs were not all that they had planned. The men they were with were not the men who went away. Somehow, they were entirely different—moody, perhaps too gay, quite evidently covering something by the gaiety, anxious to forget instead of telling all the experiences which they want so much to hear.

This is just a sample of many other things which you will find useful in this little book and which, on the whole, is quite delightful to read. I loved the little bit about the woman who tried to give up her home and send her child away and found that it created for her husband, off at the war, only a sense of terrible insecurity, because he felt he had no real home which he remembered anywhere in the background to which he could cling, and for which he was actually fighting.

Many a husband would not have been honest enough to stop his wife in time. He might have thought he owed it to the woman to let her do the things she thought wisest. Yet, as a matter of fact, all she needed to make the effort to go on living as usual, was the knowledge that the home he knew meant security to the man somewhere far beyond her ken.

What it must mean to those men so far away to be able to turn their thoughts for a minute to something they feel is fixed and stable in their world of home, something they love, something that is their real life, not this interim which somehow or other, they must fight through.

And now, to something in lighter vein. Franklin P. Adams has just gotten out an anthology of light verse. It is called "Innocent Merriment," and while I know these poems are his favorites, I am sure you will find plenty of your own there, too. Who does not like Christopher Morley's: "The Gospel of Mr. Pepys," ending:

We should adventure on a few."

No one could grow up without, somewhere along the road, having enjoyed Lewis Carroll's "Father William." So, when you want a pleasant hour, pick up "Innocent Merriment."

U.S. Purchasing Brazil's Coffee

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 5.—(AP)—United States purchases of Brazil's unexportable surplus of coffee got under way this week. Santos, Rio De Janiero and Vitoria started putting into execution for the first time the Brazilian-United States agreement of October, 1942, under which the United States guaranteed that Brazil would be able to sell all of its 1941-42 and 1942-43 basic quotas to the United States despite the shipping shortage and other wartime obstacles.

PLANS OPEN HOUSE DAY

Mrs. Leonard E. Wize, chairman of the committee in charge of the annual "Open House" day planned by members of the canteen committee of the United Services Club Hostess House for May 12.

U.S.C. Plans Open House

At an informal meeting Friday members of the canteen committee, U.S.C. hostess house made further arrangements for the annual reception to the public. Club rooms will be open to citizens of Edmonton on May 12 during the afternoon and evening, so that the public may see how the U.S.C. Hostess House operates for the entertainment and comfort of Canadians in uniform.

Members of the armed forces have agreed to assist in showing visitors around the premises and will be on duty from three in the afternoon until eleven in the evening. A simple, wartime menu has been planned by the canteen committee and members of the U.S.C. board will donate tea for the reception.

The meeting also attended to regular business of the month, with Mrs. James Cox in the chair. Mrs. R. Wyatt, president of the U.S.C. Hostess House, also attended the meeting. During progress of the business discussions, it was resolved by members present to establish a special luncheon plate in the canteen because of the great number of workers who drop-ped in during the lunch hour.

"Y" Notebook

Ton-A-Wondah will meet Thursday at 8.15 p.m. in the "Y" club-room.

The Arc-Naw-Air Club were hostesses recently to a group of Australian airmen, at a social evening. Dancing and games were the main events of the evening.

American Women's Service Club Plan Luncheon

American Women's Service club met in the Empire Room, Hudson's Bay Company store, Tuesday afternoon when plans were made for a luncheon to be held May 12 at 1 p.m. at the Highland's golf club, 66 street and Ada boulevard. Mrs. R. J. McMahan is in charge of arrangements and Mrs. H. Lee Huston is planning the entertainment. Anyone planning to attend is asked to make reservations before May 10 by phoning Mrs. G. A. Sedgewick, 83688.

Mrs. Paul Grimes was elected vice-president to replace Mrs. G. Randall who has left town.

Miss Pallister Weds Monday

The altar of St. Mary's church in the Highlands was decorated with bouquets of spring flowers for the marriage Monday, 7:30 p.m., of Miss Doris Iveson Pallister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pallister of Edmonton, and Norman Morgan, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Morgan of Edmonton Archdeacon W. J. Leversedge of Vermilion, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Arthur Elliott.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white sheer with a lace bodice and yoke of white braid, cut with a simple round neckline and full bishop sleeves. Her chapel length veil was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of dark red roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. J. Gabe, wore a dress of pale pink sheer and a tiny hat of soft blue flowers and pink net. She carried an arm bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

Best man was Wilfred Dunlop, and ushers were Alfred Pallister, brother of the bride, and Ab Waring.

A reception in 50 guests was held after the ceremony at the Cottage tea room where the bride's table was laid with a lace cloth, covered with a three tiered wedding cake and decorated with bowls of spring flowers and tall tapers.

For travelling the bride donned a tailored suit of beige wool, a camel hair topcoat and brown accessories. After a wedding trip to Banff the couple will take up temporary residence in Edmonton.

Former Edmonton Police Officer Weds Monday

A wedding of interest to many Edmontonians was performed Monday at 8 p.m. in Erskine United church when Miss Martha Schellenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schellenberger of Spruce Grove, became the bride of Sgt. Pilot Officer Frank A. Winn, only son of Mrs. W. Winn of Edmonton. The Rev. J. H. Perrie, pastor of the church, officiated. Sgt. Pilot Winn, born in Winnipeg, attended Edmonton schools. He joined the city police force in 1938 and was a constable until his enlistment in the R.C.A.F. here in April, 1942.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white sheer fashioned with a fitted bodice, buttoning to a Peter Pan collar, and a full gathered skirt. The full sleeves were gathered to a tight band at her wrist. Her chapel length veil of white embroidered net was gathered to a pleated halo and she carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

Pte. Eleanor M. Eady, C.W.A.C. Saskatoon, was bridesmaid. Her dress, styled similarly to the bride's, was of powder blue sheer, and with it she wore amatching shoulder length veil caught to her head with a cluster of flowers. Her bouquet was of pale pink carnations.

After the ceremony a reception to 25 guests was held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Whyte where the wedding table was decorated with a three tiered wedding cake, red and mauve tulips and lighted with tall tapers.

Mrs. Schellenberger, wearing an ensemble in shades of white, with a corsage of pink carnations, received with the bridal party.

Eileen Longman Will Marry in May

Of interest to friends in University and social circles in the city and in Vancouver is the engagement of Eileen Doris, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Longman of Edmonton, to LAC. William Gerald Steele, R.C.A.F., son of Mrs. Robert Steele and the late Mr. Steele of New Westminster, B.C.

Miss Longman has attended the University of Alberta and this year received the junior diploma of the Faculty of Education. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity.

until Monday making plans for the shows. On Saturday at 2:30 p.m. she will meet members of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and club presidents at the Macdonald hotel. The Re-Make Review has shown to capacity audiences across Canada. It is part of Canada's conservation program and shows women how to utilize discarded and worn clothing.

Mrs. R. S. Fleming of Vancouver with her two children, Donald and Gail, is visiting in the city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Robertson. They will remain here until the end of June.

The Alumnae Association of the Royal Alexandra Hospital are sponsoring a Victoria Day sports dance on Saturday, May 22 in the Nurses' Residence. Proceeds will be used for war work. Convening the affair are Mrs. R. D. Ferrier, Miss Violet Chapman, Mrs. T. M. Blackiock, Miss Kathleen Stackhouse and Miss Katherine Powell.

Dr. S. Fleming Married in Sask.

Of interest to friends in Edmonton is the wedding of Doris Muriel Marshall, grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Marchant of Saskatoon to Dr. Sanford Alexander Fleming of Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fleming of Regina, Sask., which took place in Christ Church, Saskatoon on Monday. The Rev. Herbert Bowles officiated.

Dr. Fleming received his degree in dentistry from the University of Alberta at convocation exercises in May 1942.

For her wedding the bride was gowned in corded ivory taffeta fashioned with a full skirt, fitted bodice with a dainty yoke of fine lace set in at the neckline. Her fingertip length veil was caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, white sheaks and green fern.

Mrs. Russell Findley, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a floor-length gown of pink sheer in her hair she wore a halo of pink daisies and she carried a bouquet of yellow carnations, pink and mauve snapdragons.

Capt. Charles Duke of North Battleford was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the King George Hotel. Guests were received by the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Marchant and Mr. and Mrs. H. Fleming. The bride's table was set with a lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

For the wedding trip to Calgary and Banff, the bride chose a two-piece dressmaker suit of Australian blue wool, topped with a beige tweed coat and complemented with beige accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. Dr. and Mrs. Fleming will be at home in Edmonton after May 15.

I.O.D.E. Meet Hears Reports

Members of the Fort Edmonton Chapter, I.O.D.E., gathered in the Macdonald hotel Monday for their regular May meeting. Mrs. H. C. Marshall, regent, was in the chair.

Reports were made by the various club officials. Mrs. D. G. Adams, war work convener, reported that 50 knitted articles had been completed for the Armed Services and these distributed out among the more three afghans. Mrs. J. G. Savage, retired servicemen's convener, reported a visit to the soldiers' ward in the University hospital on Good Friday with gifts of cigarettes and magazines. Several needy families had been supplied with clothing and layettes according to the report of Mrs. Stonehouse Child and Family Welfare convener.

Toronto Girl Weds Alan Harvie In Church-On-The-Hill

Miss Kathleen E. McMahon of Toronto and Alan Burnside Harvie, Toronto, son of Chief Justice and Mrs. Horace Harvey of Edmonton, were married May 1, in the Church-on-the-Hill, Toronto. Miss McMahon is a daughter of Mrs. McMahon, Winnipeg, and the late Mr. William George McMahon. She was given in marriage by her cousin Mr. W. B. R. Bolton.

The bride wore a blue suit with a hat of darker blue. Her only attendant was Miss Ann Harvey, sister of the bridegroom, who was gowned in a blush pink sheer dress with a slight straw hat. She carried a miniature cascade of pink and blue flowers.

Douglas Logan was best man, and the wedding marches were played by H. H. Langston.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. G. A. Newman, when Mrs. McMahon and Mrs. Harvey received.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Toronto. For travelling the bride wore a rough wool coat of cocoa violet over her wedding suit. Mrs. Harvey was formerly secretary of the training department, Dominion Girl Guides association.

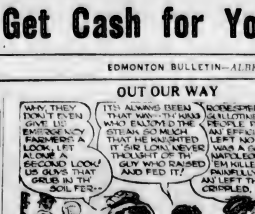
OUT OUR WAY



Before The Magistrate

Dorothy Deville, sentenced by Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., in police court last week on a vagrancy charge, re-appeared Wednesday morning, charged with assault. An additional 30 day sentence was added to the previous one of 60 days; the sentences to run consecutively. As she was taken from the courtroom, she began resistance as she had last week, which required the intervention of police officers.

The accused had left the court room on Friday after being sentenced to Fort Saskatchewan jail, and in the lobby started to struggle with Policewoman McCullough, the court was told. Assaulted by Constable Pennyfather, Mrs. McCullough tried to get the girl back into the cell, where she would await transportation to the jail.

In the struggle, the accused kicked the latter in the hand, inflicting bond injuries which required medical attention. Police were called to assist in handling the girl, who stated she was not going to Fort Saskatchewan.

The accused told the court she didn't know she had kicked the policewoman, and asked how she was to be dealt with done so. She was told by the magistrate he "didn't know when or ever" she would learn to obey the law.

Maj. F. Mabb, of the Salvation Army Women's Home, asked the court to remand Dorothy June, charged with vagrancy, a chance. The Salvation Army would give her every assistance. The accused was placed on 12 months suspended sentence and her own recognizance of $100.

Six intoxicants were scheduled to appear. Some of the imbibers had nothing to say, a couple had no previous record. John P. McCabe told the court he "was very drunk." Lawrence Gray did not respond to the call of the court and had his bail forfeited. Russell Tierney, who the court was told had got into a fight in which he hit another man over the head with a bottle, said he didn't remember a fight. He had been fined before. Mr. Millar reminded him, as he imposed a fine of $50 and costs or three months with hard labor. All others were assessed $20 and costs or 30 days.

Cases of breach of city bylaws and the motor vehicle act, concerning plowing up the streets, dogs at large, driving at unreasonable speed and refusing to give public service vehicle act, were heard in police court Tuesday afternoon. Pearle Mundell was assessed $2 and costs or four days on a charge of plowing up a street, while James Walker, for allowing dog to be at large, was fined $1 and costs or three days.

Wilfred A. Morasse, charged with driving a motor vehicle at an unreasonable rate of speed, was fined $20 and costs or 30 days. Three charges were laid by the R.C.M.P. and Thomas A. Puffer was assessed $2 and costs or four days. Gus Kaizer was fined $5 and costs or seven days, and John Thatchuk, $15 and costs or 21 days, for infractions of the motor vehicle and passenger service vehicle acts.

Meat to Stock Warship 5 Months Saved on Tuesday

OTTAWA, May 3.—(CP)—A prices board spokesman said last night that Canada's first "meatless Tuesday" conserved sufficient meat to stock a large British battleship for five months at sea.

The spokesman estimated that on one "meatless day" dinners in public eating places contributed more than 1,000 pounds of meat to victory purposes. "Meatless Tuesdays" throughout the year, he said, will save approximately 20,000,000 pounds of meat.

Man Is Missing South Side Home

John Currie, 83 years old, left the Glenside Home, South Side, Sunday afternoon, to visit his sister according to Maj Brewer, Bonnie Doon Home. Since leaving his sister's home on 85 avenue after a short visit on Sunday, he has not been seen.

Maj. Brewer told police he had planned to meet Currie's sister, who said her brother had left her after a short visit, with the understanding that he was returning to the home.

The missing man is described as being about five feet three inches tall, uses a cane, and was wearing a green fedora hat and brown windbreaker.

Premier Aberhart Sees Move to Establish World Control, Finance, Trade

For the last three years, or ever since the start of the war, there has been a steady stream of propaganda, carefully organized and well-financed, to win support for setting up a world federation of nations under an international authority, Premier William Aberhart stated in an address Monday night. Under this scheme, all nations would surrender control of finance, international trade, their armed forces and citizenship rights to the international authority, and Mr. Aberhart asked, "How long is it going to take for the people to realize what is going on, and what it will mean to them?"

"In the first place it would mean that the people of Canada would no longer be sovereign. There would no longer be the constitutionally supreme authority in their own country. By giving over control of finance to some alien-dominated international dictatorship, they would be giving that authority over the plate control over every aspect of their national life," he said.

"Control of finance would mean control of the money system—that in turn controls every phase of production and distribution [illegible] stripped of all its camouflage the final result will be a slave state, worse than anything as yet proposed by our bombastic dictators.

"Now is the time to act. If we wait until the bonds are welded and this dreadful totalitarian order set up, the people of Canada will then be helpless to do anything. They will find that they have the harsh conditions that are imposed upon them.

"Remember that in addition to control over finance, the international authority would also have control over the armed forces, and the citizenship rights," he said.

Mr. Aberhart's complete address, entitled, "International Dictatorship by Finance," follows:

A few nights ago I was listening to one of those "quiz" programs which have become so popular and it struck me very forcibly that it was but another example of how people are being taught to think, guess rather than to think for themselves. The kind of questions being asked were: "Who is the minister of agriculture?" "Is Moscow further north or further south than Quebec?" and so forth. The participant either knew the answers or he had to guess them. I cannot recall a single question that would have the effect of making people think. Has it occurred to you that it is becoming very much the fashion to leave all phases of our national life?

For example you will recall the famous plebiscite we had previously in Canada. In it the people were asked a question, the answer to which would not commit the government to any particular course of action. The government refused to indicate what they would do if the people voted either yes or no, hence the people themselves could not possibly tell what would be the result of their decision. They had to guess.

Or take election time. As a general rule the candidates of all parties came forward with their platforms all nicely dressed up to please the electors. Do you not ask, "What do you want? Do you want security in terms of more goods and better homes? Do you want these without regimentation and bureaucracy so that you may enjoy the maximum of freedom? Do you want freedom from debt and overburdening taxation? Oh! No no! They are not given the opportunity of voting on anything so straightforward as that. They are asked to vote on tariffs and free trade, on compulsory unemployment insurance under one party's bureaucracy or another party's bureaucracy, or whether they want industries nationalized, or would they prefer an international police force. In this way complicated and technical questions are put before the people, without giving them the proper information upon which to form sound opinions regarding what the results would be for them if these things came to pass. In other words—they have to guess.

NOW GOING ON

That is the kind of thing that is going on all the time. We are being discouraged from thinking. We are being drilled into becoming a nation of guessers, and the men in the know manipulate the situation from behind the scenes know all of the answers, and the necessary information carefully withheld from the people, the manipulators are always right and the people generally guess wrong.

Nowhere in this more strikingly demonstrated than in regard to the [illegible] to us in the daily press by some newspapers. Tonight I propose to deal with just one example to show you the dangerous intrigue that is being perpetrated right under our noses.

Suppose that you pick up some newspaper one evening, and read bold headlines such as these "World Totalitarian Dictatorship by Finance Proposed as New Post-War Order—Confidence Expressed British Empire and American Governments Will Be Hoaxed Into Acceptance of Plan." What would be your reaction to that news? Would it make your blood boil? Would you feel indignant that any body should dare to put forward a plan like that while your son or your brother or your husband is over there risking his life for the ideals of democracy and our traditional British freedoms?

TELLS FRANKLY

Well, let me tell you frankly, you have read that news in your paper, but it was not stated nearly so baldly. Possibly because what you read was complicated or was couched in altruistic language, and since you had no definite information on which to form an opinion, you just had to guess what it all meant. And you probably guessed that there was nothing very sinister about it. That is what you were intended to do.

A short time ago you may remember reading in a newspaper that plans for an international monetary system were published on the same day in both London, England, and in Washington, by the British and the United States governments.

These two plans were presented in the newspaper reports as simple and innocent expedients for making it easier to re-establish international trade after the war—a most desirable and worthy objective.

Strange as it may seem, though, the so-called British and American plans were supposed to have been drawn up independently, they were basically similar, and both were made known to the public on the same day. This would tend to impress the people with the unanimity of agreement and the unanimity of purpose in the whole matter. It was another of those strange coincidences like the similarity of the Beveridge, Marsh and NRMB. plans of social security which were offered to the public within a few days of each other and were identical in their main features. Well, I tell you frankly I don't believe in coincidences of that kind. They are too weird to be genuine.

MAIN FEATURES

Let me draw to your attention some of the main features common to both the British and the American plans for an international money system. Both advocate setting up an international unit of currency based on gold. In one case the name "Bancor" is suggested; in the other the term "Unitas" is put forward. But what does the name matter anyway, since both plans involve control of the international money system by an international authority, which will like wise control international trade. Also see all international [illegible] centralization of power, etc. Both plans suggest that some such system should be set up in a hurry. Both plead its necessity on the grounds that it is essential for the purpose of averting confusion in world trade after the war. How plausible! How persuasive! "Will you come into my parlor said the spider to the fly" sort of manner.

Lord Keynes, a director of the Bank of England, is reputed to be the author of the British scheme. He is reported as having stated that such international monetary system might be used to finance a World Police Force. All totalitarian powers evidently need a [illegible]. We are told also who was the author of the American plan.

NO UNDUE ALARM

On the face of it there seems to be nothing in these proposals to unduly alarm people, does there? But that is only because the people haven't the information which would enable them to understand what an international money system, controlled by an international authority, backed up by an international police force, would mean to them.

For the last three years, in fact ever since the outbreak of war, there has been a steady stream of propaganda, carefully organized and well financed, to win support for setting up a world federation of nations under an international authority, to which all nations would surrender control of finance, international trade, their armed forces and their citizenship rights. How long is it going to take for the people to realize what is going on and what it will mean to them?

TIME TO ACT

Now is the time to act. If we wait until the bonds are welded and this dreadful totalitarian order set up, the people of Canada will then be helpless to do anything. They will find that they have the harsh conditions that are imposed upon them. Remember that in addition to control over finance, international trade, their armed forces and their citizenship rights, the international authority would also have control over the armed forces and the citizenship rights. If any individual dared to challenge the authority of the international dictatorship, he might find that they had deprived him of his citizenship rights. And if the people as a whole started to kick over the traces—well, they would be [illegible] armed and police while the international over-lords would have control of all of the armed forces and the secret police force. So it would be just too bad for the people.

Do you consider it fantastic to imagine that anything like that could happen? How can you when the very plan I have outlined has been put forward seriously as the basis of our Post-War Order?

In the first instance I saw books on the subject were published. One of these was written by a man connected with a newspaper which, [illegible] the evidence of British ambassador to the United States, was controlled by the banking interests that is the headquarters of international finance.

The other book was by the son of one of the founders of the money power on this continent. There is absolutely no question that the whole purpose of this evil conspiracy—to set up an international totalitarian dictatorship with control over every aspect of our lives and armed with overwhelming forces to impose their will upon us, can be traced to that small group of men which comprise international finance.

END OF DEMOCRACY

If ever that scheme should be put over, it would mean the end of democracy, the end of the British Empire, the end of freedom. On the other hand, should the establishment of a world slave state more ruthless and vile than anything which the evil genius of the Nazis have as yet conceived. Yet poisonous propaganda in favor of this diabolical idea is being openly carried for and wide in Canada—and that in wartime also. I assert that it is treachery of the grossest kind, even while all the suffering and sacrifices of this present war are going on to overthrow the totalitarianism which we should even suggest that we do away with all that our brave lads are fighting and dying for.

It is most important that we realize that the proposals for international money control and international dictatorship are not put forward in an insidious, above-board manner. We are indeed told very carefully wrapped up in an attractive, and subtle propaganda form. You are told that international control of money is a means for ensuring orderly world trade. You are not told that international control of finance is an international authority, it will be impossible for the people of Canada ever to change their unsatisfactory monetary system. That fact is kept hidden.

PLAUSIBLE TERM

Again you are told that international control of the armed forces is necessary to maintain world peace. The plausible term used to describe it is an "international police force". It sounds more innocent. You are not told that such a force would place the peoples of all nations completely at the mercy of the international authority which controlled that force.

And remember where you have a concentration of power of a few hands all unscrupulous men with the mentality of gangsters get control. History has proven that as Lord Acton, put it so aptly: "All power corrupts; absolute power corrupts absolutely."

I warn you, with every ounce of sincerity and vehemence I possess; for your own sake, for the sake of the brave lads who are fighting so heroically to overthrow tyranny, for the sake of your children, for the sake of the future of our countries—yes—for the sake of everything you hold dear, oppose, expose and resist by every means in your power this audacious and evil conspiracy by the money powers to set up a world slave state.

DARK JUNGLES

By JOHN C. FLEMING AND LOIS EBY

CHAPTER XIX

THE moon was full—a brilliant, luminous disk moving through the warm blue of the tropic sky. The breeze was warm. Even the towering depths of the jungle seemed pulsing with some dark, vibrant elixir of life.

Barry, strolling beside Allison across the clearing from the Indian huts, gave a sigh of impatience. In all this vital, urgent rushing of nature he felt himself the one fixed, helpless point.

"It's been nine days since I got back from the Quiche country," he muttered. "I can't sit around forever."

Allison lifted the soft flared skirt of her evening gown to leap a puddle. "Renaldo says you are a very strong man if you can throw of the kind of fever you got in two weeks."

Barry ignored the reminder. "I'll be all right if I take it slow. How soon do you expect to have the chicle ready for shipment?"

She glanced involuntarily toward the line of cooking vats in the deep shadows of the jungle. "Tomorrow," she said, "or at latest the next day."

They went up the steps to the veranda. She paused to let down the bamboo screen, and called a servant.

"Have her bring my drink to my bedroom, will you?" Barry asked. "I want to get out some reports to send back to headquarters with the chicle train."

"All right, then," she flung out with a pouting smile. "I'll let Renaldo whisper beautiful nothings to me."

"I'll bet he can do it," grinned Barry. "See you at breakfast." He went to his room, the grin lingering on his face. It was a constant source of surprise to him how this autocratic little darling of society could adapt herself to this heathen mode of existence. He had seen other women try to do it and fail—women with far more strength of character, more poise. What was the difference?

A certain flexibility, he decided, as he brought out his small portable typewriter and found a suitably low table. She had no strain or grudge over the loss of her fortune. She was not making the attempt to mold the jungle to her, but was content to mold herself to the jungle. She had a quality of receptiveness, that's what she had—that essentially feminine keynote so eternally lacking in most women.

He got hold of his thoughts by main force then, realizing he'd been about to compare her with his fiancee. And Lila— Gradually he was able to concentrate on his reports.

He worked at first with absorbed speed. The mule train going out with chicle would be the last chance to start the reports to the New York office before he made his next attempt to persuade the Quiche chief to open up his mercury mines. He wanted these reports complete in case he didn't come out of the Quiche country this time, the company would have all data at hand and could carry on the campaign for the mines without loss of time. Time—

His fingers moved faster over the keys. There was so damnably little time and the need of the mines was so great! He felt a fresh wave of impatience burn through him. He cursed his stupid fever. If he could only start pack tomorrow! For a minute he played with the idea. Why not risk it? He might make it. He might be able to prove to the chief that he had been framed. He might—

But cold logic smashed his wishful thinking. He was already trembling with the effort of a half hour's typing. His head felt light and dizzy. No, he would be throwing away the one chance of accomplishing his mission if he went off half-cooked. Better to wait till Renaldo had finished the chicle boiling, and made the trip to the new grove. Then he had promised to go with him. And Renaldo's friendship with the remote old chief would be one hope of explaining the suspicion pinned on Barry in their unfortunate first encounter.

His fingers were stumbling over the keys now, hitting more wrong keys than right. He pushed back his rude chair and crossed the low roofed room to push the window open further. He clutched the sill for support and struggled for his breath as he looked out at the moon-flooded clearing of the estancia. Cursed fever — making a weakling out of a man in a couple of weeks!

A knock sounded on his door. And at his invitation Allison entered.

"Renaldo didn't come," she murmured wickedly, "so I brought you your drink." But as she handed him the iced pineapple juice, abrupt concern swept the provocative teasing light from her face. "You're sick again!"

He explained bitterly that it was the work he'd done. He wanted to get it out and—

She broke in eagerly. "I'll do the typing. I'm marvelous a hunt and peck. You dictate."

He refused at first but eventually tried it. He found the method worked, and warmed to his task. Hope lifted him. He'd get the reports out all right this way.

Allison typed obediently at first. But gradually her rising interest broke into questions. The picture of his mission began to take form for her. He answered her questions readily. Told her of the estimated amount of quicksilver to be found in the volcanic Quiche highland. Of the huge mining and transportation system ready to be hurried into the country the moment Quiche permission was given.

"You'll get it, I know you will," she said. Excitement was like a trance on her. "Renaldo will help you."

It was late but she insisted on finishing. When the reports were done, she put away the typewriter and moved back their small table, turning out the bright typing lamp. The small night lamp by his bed was a feeble glow in the flooding moonlight. As his silhouette moved by the open window toward his empty glass, he had again the swift impression that she was a gay debutante at a club dance.

She was murmuring peacefully. "Full moon makes the jungle restless. So many noises tonight. Mules stamping around. Indians stamping around. The trees shouting around . . ."

"Make you nervous?" he asked.

She paused beside him, glass in hand. "Nervous?" she echoed wonderingly. "Why should they? Right at the moment I love them all."

He searched the white oval of her face turned up to him. She meant it. "You're a miracle woman," he told her. "And thanks for everything."

She started to answer him, then broke off to listen, her face still lifted to his. It was only the sound of footsteps on the hard wood of the hall, but the rhythm of the movement was wrong—lighter than Renaldo—not the slithering step of a servant.

A tall, slender figure in light suit, boots and sun helmet moved into the open doorway. Calmly, as if her being there were an ordinary, not an impossible thing, she smiled across the moonlit room at the two standing together in the window.

"Hello, darling!" It was Lila's voice.

McCoy Health Service

Milk may be considered as one of the most healthful drinks because it contains most of the elements necessary for the body's nutrition. The raw, unpasteurized milk is the best to use, providing the source of supply is known to be healthy. Pasteurized milk does not have as great a food value as milk in the raw state due to its being heated to such a degree that some of the organic salts and vitamins are precipitated. The pasteurization process kills some of the bacteria which causes milk to sour, and that is the reason why pasteurized milk will keep longer than the raw milk.

Milk is considered to be the richest source of natural calcium which is necessary for helping to build strong teeth and bone. A very pleasant and healthful drink may be made by mixing equal parts of fresh milk and orange juice. This is a perfect combination and when the two are mixed together and well shaken, the milk is predigested to a certain extent.

Too little has been said of the health giving properties of pure water, which is so necessary in cleansing the system of toxic wastes. When the urine becomes heavy and highly colored, this is an indication that more water should be taken. This condition is frequently evident during hot weather, and a large proportion of water is eliminated through the skin.

I am often asked whether it is advisable to drink water with meals. Some consider this to be injurious but my experience has been that there is no rule which can be laid down for everyone and whether to drink water or not with meals is purely a matter of personal preference.

Various types of citrus juices are highly recommended for their health-giving properties and the juice of the orange, grapefruit and the lemon contains very high percentage of vitamin C as well as important mineral salts. Unsweetened pineapple juice is also an excellent beverage. The canned variety may not taste quite like the freshly-squeezed juice, but there is very little variation in the Vitamin content.

I do not recommend carbonated drinks due to the fact that they affect the stomach and intestines by the generation of gas from the carbonated water. The various brands of pop on the market usually consist of water, sugar or glucose and some imitation fruit flavor, plus artificial coloring.

In looking over the entire list of beverages available for every-day use, I am convinced that milk is the most healthful, but it should never be taken at the ordinary meal. Many people do not know that to drink milk when eating either fish or meat, forms one of the most incompatible of food mixtures.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

DESERT VICTORY

"Greatest War Film Ever Produced ... A Picture Everyone Must See"— New York News

GEN. SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY

the famous, popular and hard-hitting commander of the British Eighth Army, whose salutation to his troops "good hunting" has become world-famous. A master-strategist, he is a general who moves with and among his men. His personality has fired the imagination of the Allied Nations, who are counting heavily on him to clear Tunisia of the Axis in the immediate future.

The Story of Montgomery's Eighth Army Opens on Thursday at the Capitol

"Desert Victory," portraying the spectacular, almost unbelievable smashing of the El Alamein line, and the pursuit of the German Africa Corps 1,300 miles across the Libyan desert, opens a special engagement at the Capitol theatre Thursday. Made by the British Army Film and Photographic Unit attached to the British Eighth Army, "Desert Victory" records vividly and in unforgettable scenes, the manner in which Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery pulverized Rommel's defences in Egypt, and then sent the vaunted crack troops of the Africa Corps reeling in defeat.

There have been few military achievements to equal that of the Eighth Army. After the disappointments, and disastrous events of 1942 that almost lost Egypt and perhaps the war itself, the Eighth Army did a comeback that amazed the world.

Events moved fast in Libya once the Eighth Army opened its mighty offensive and "Hell - Fire Pass," Tobruk, Sidi Barrani, Bengasi and other points that had been won and lost before, again were in British hands, probably for keeps.

"Desert Victory" was shown to a specially-invited audience here 10 days ago. Those who saw the preview were enthusiastic in their praises, of the manner in which the whole picture was conceived and photographed. The intensive training given the troops, their nerve, dash and elan and the spirit displayed at all times left no doubt in the minds of Edmontonians as to how and why the Eighth Army achieves its success.

MADE UNDER FIRE

This record was actually made under fire and is such a realistic picture of that 1,300-mile chase across the Libyan desert that the theatre management needn't bother about getting another feature for the duration.

"Desert Victory" is a picture that everyone must see. It is war in its most thrilling and terrifying aspects and, since we are all concerned with it directly or indirectly, it behooves all of us to know what this war is like, whether the battle is fought on the sands of an African desert or in the swamps and jungles of Guadalcanal.

ON RAMPAGE

From the moment at El Alamein, when zero hour for the opening of the gigantic offensive starts, until a triumphant Montgomery rides into Tripoli at the head of his forces, it would seem that all hell was on a rampage in Africa. The spectator is behind the man with the camera at all times. He walks gingerly out with the sappers who locate the enemy's hidden land mines while the army awaits the signal to advance across a safe bit of the terrain. He is beside the men at the big guns when they pass their deadly ammunition over to the target, which is sometimes a German gun, and at others an enemy tank which is trying vainly to stop the British avalanche of infantry, tanks and artillery.

THE LANDMARKS

The landmarks of the campaign are the retaking of Tobruk, the passing through of Bengazi and El Agheila (the latter spot is where the British expected Rommel to turn and make a counter offensive that never materialized) and the capture of Tripoli, where Gens. Montgomery and Alexander, the guiding geniuses of the campaign, are met by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Four army cameramen lost their lives in filming the battle, seven were wounded and six got so close to the enemy in their eagerness to "shoot" him that they are now prisoners of the Germans. Some captured German film has been included in the production.

Enthusiasm originally meant inspiration by the presence of God.

Y.M.C.A. Show Draws Praise Of Spectators

Senior leaders of the Edmonton Y.M.C.A., assisted by members of the junior and intermediate corps, presented their annual physical education show at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday evening. Sgt. Vic Woodland, R.C.A.F., was master of ceremonies. He was an active member of the corps before going on active service.

The senior corps presented an acrobatic stunt drill, exercises and pyramids on the parallel bars, calisthenic health drills, high horizontal bar routine, as well as taking part in the opening pyramids with which the performance concluded.

The art of exercising with weights was demonstrated by Henry Henkel, Maurice Tudge and Jim Lindsay. A three round exhibition of boxing by Jack Berry and John MacDiarmid brought forth considerable friendly action. Bob Dilke performed with electric Indian clubs in the darkened hall, while members of the Rotary-sponsored club of boys in the Y showed their abilities as tumblers.

The second half of the program opened with a demonstration of judo by Cpl. Simoneau of the R.C.M.P. and Bill Sears of the leaders corps. Intermediate leaders under the director of boys' work, Armour Bull, secretary of the Y, performed on the horse while Ken Deane and Norm Brown gave several popular snorts in a bronze posing act. The finals included four sports pictures after which Flt. Sgt. Malcolm Lange, R.C.A.F., sang "Land of Hope and Glory." The West hall of the Y.M.C.A. was crowded with spectators of the gymkhana.

"Acting, Acting" Minister Acts For Government

Somewhat of a rarity on government circles, an "acting-acting" minister is functioning at the legislative buildings this week.

The minister is Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, who, in the absence of Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs, becomes actually the acting-acting attorney-general. Mr. Maynard, who has gone to Ottawa on government business, is acting attorney-general in the absence of Premier William Aberhart, attorney-general.

Mr. Manning is having a busy time of it these days as, besides his newest "title" of "Acting-acting Attorney-General," he is acting premier, provincial secretary, and minister of trade and industry.

New Manager

N. Lang Chapman, well-known city business man, has been appointed manager of the Scott Fruit Company in Edmonton, it was announced Wednesday.

Mr. Chapman succeeds Harvey Harrison as head of the large Edmonton fruit company. Mr. Harrison will go to Calgary, where he will take over the management of Consolidated Fruits Co. Ltd. there.

Airmen Aiding Victory Loan Drive

These three airmen, two from Canada and one from bomb-scarred Coventry, England, are not only giving themselves to the war effort, but they were the first subscribers to the Fourth Victory Loan at No. 3 "M" Depot, R.C.A.F. Organization for the sale of Victory bonds at the depot was completed Monday at a parade of personnel at which F. E. Staples, Edmonton loan committee chairman, was the depot will be under the personal supervision of Group Captain R. M. Smith, officer commanding. The airmen are: left to right, AC.2 J. T. Wallace, Toronto; AC.2 Emyr C. Richards, Coventry; and AC.2 G. F. Shultz, Toronto.

Victory Loan In Rural Areas Meets Success

The Waskatenau-Radway district leads all rural Alberta in the percentage of quota purchases in the Fourth Victory Loan, returns filed at loan headquarters Wednesday revealed. Up to Tuesday evening the residents of this district had subscribed 114.5 of their $40,000 quota and were pushing on to an undisclosed new objective.

Although not the first rural district to reach its quota, that honor went to Pincher Creek, the salesmen in the northern district have been "turning on the heat" during recent days of the campaign and are determined to hold the lead throughout the campaign.

Subscriptions for the first eight days of the present loan amounted to $1,824,500, an increase of $891,450 over the eight days total of the Third Victory Loan. The number of subscribers to the present loan is 7442, an increase of 3,816.

SECOND PLACE

Edgerton district is in second place in the Northern Alberta rural campaign with $31,650 of a $50,000 quota achieved. This is 90.4 per cent of the objective. In third place is Hughenden Sales in this district for the eight days period amounted to $25,500 of a $53,000 quota, the equivalent of 77.2 per cent.

Past the 70 per cent mark Viking district is in fourth place with sales of $30,300 out of a $43,000 quota achieved. Vegreville with a quota of $70,000 had sold $48,950 of it for a percentage of 70.

Alberta Didn't Cancel Sunday Picture Show

No order was issued by the provincial government cancelling a show scheduled to be given in the Capitol theatre last Sunday, Hon E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, said Wednesday.

Asked for comment on conflicting reports regarding the cancellation of the show, he pointed out that in the regulations under the provincial Amusement Tax Act, covering the issuing of theatre licenses, it is provided that "all licenses shall be issued subject to the condition that no exhibition shall be permitted on the Lord's Day except in connection with religious services, and then only with the written permission of the attorney-general."

Mr. Manning added that this provision had been in effect for years, and empowers provincial authorities to authorize the holding of Sunday shows only in connection with religious services.

NO AUTHORITY

"It is obvious that under the above provision the provincial authorities would have no authority to issue a permit for the holding of the show in question, even had such permission been requested. As a matter of fact, the provincial authorities were not consulted at all when the proposed show was arranged by the department of national defence," he said.

"I understand that the theatre management brought the regulations under the provincial statute to the attention of the minister of national defence, and suggested an over-riding order be issued, authorizing the theatre to hold the show for members of the armed forces.

"Apparently no such order was issued, and the theatre officials accordingly felt that they could not be expected to proceed with the show in contravention of provisions under which their license had been obtained.

GIVES OPINION

Mr. Manning added, "it seems to me the suggestion made by the theatre management to the department of national defence was a natural and proper one.

"Obviously, the province should not be asked to alter established theatre regulation which govern all the theatres in the province, for the purpose of enabling only one theatre to hold Sunday shows. This is no doubt the reason why no such request was made.

"If the department of national defence wished Sunday shows to be held for the members of the armed forces, it would seem but reasonable that they would be prepared to exercise their authority under the War Measures Act to issue an over-riding order to that effect in the case of the theatre affected.

Kinsmen Club Auction Sale To Be June 16

"Help the Kiddies of Britain Now, for the Need Is Greater Then Ever. Never Let It Be Said It Was Too Late With Too Little." Thus the Kinsmen's Club of Edmonton challenges every citizen to help the Milk-for-Britain Fund by supporting the great patriotic auction sale, to be held this year June 16, in the Market Square.

The sale, behind which is every auctioneer in Edmonton, will be the gathering-place of city and country people, where every conceivable kind of merchandise—livestock, furniture, farm machinery, tools, clothing, novelties, and pictures, will be sold.

All services such as trucking, advertising, labor, and other duties in connection with the sale are given free of charge, and this means that every dollar purchase sends ten quarts of milk overseas to needy young Britons.

The Kinsmen solicit donations for the sale, and donors are asked to write or phone any city auctioneer, or the Kinsmen's Club of Edmonton, P.O. Box 459, or phone 22314.

Anything of value will be accepted for the sale, and the support of farmers, merchants, wholesale and professional men is asked, to put this drive for Milk-for-Britain funds "over the top."

Alberta Buys Holstein Calf At East Farm

A contribution to the dairy industry of Alberta and considered important by authorities is announced Wednesday by Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, in the purchase by his department of a four-month calf, "Glenafton Rag Apple Architect," from J. J. E. McCague, a noted Holstein cattle breeder of Alliston, Ont. Purchase price of the calf was $1,000.

The calf, which comes from one of the most outstanding herds in America, is sired by Glenafton Rag Apple Marksman," out of "Grace P.M.P. Calantha." Mr. McCague recently refused an offer of $20,000 for "Marksman," his herd sire.

The dam was first prize three-year old and reserve champion at the 1941 Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and as a two-year-old, gave 13,358 pounds of milk, and 452 of fat.

The calf, selected mainly for its outstanding breeding and for high butterfat teat, is particularly well marked, and should prove of great value to Holstein-Freisian breeders, in improving both production and show qualities of their herds, Mr. McMillan said.

Former Resident Dies at Ottawa

Word has been received in Edmonton from Ottawa of the death on May 3 of John Kostash, a former resident in Alberta, and employee of the bureau of mines, Dominion government, Ottawa.

Mr. Kostash was born at Vegreville and attended the public and high schools there. Later he attended the University of Alberta, and was graduated with his master's degree in science of mining metallurgy. He moved from here to Ottawa in 1938.

To survive him Mr. Kostash leaves his wife and a baby son at Ottawa. Also surviving are his mother, of Royal Park and five brothers, Harry at Smoky Lake; Elias of Royal Park; William of Edmonton; Ladimer of Willingdon and Marshall of Copper Cliff, Ont. One sister Mrs. Helen Fodchuk of Royal Park also survives.

Funeral services were held in Ottawa on May 4. Burial took place there.

Getting Around

down. Well they could study their own symptoms at first hand," he observed with a grin.

We weren't exactly amused because we knew from past experience that the "bumps" can play hob with a fellow's stomach, but you just don't back down once you've accepted an invitation.

Mr. McConachie himself took the controls of the Lockheed Lodestar, selected for the flight. The other passengers were Dr. L. C. Harris, C.P. Air Lines medical officer; Dr. L. T. Coggeshall, specialist in tropical diseases at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; Dr. E. Osgoode, associate professor of medicine at the University of Oregon, and Doctors E. H. Watt, G. Hunter, W. R. Shaw, Fulton Gillespie, all of Edmonton; and Capt. Robert Zender, R.C.A.M.C. Red Deer Training Centre, and former Edmonton star athlete. In addition there were Leo McKinnon, C.P. Air Lines public relation department; and the conductor of this column.

Pilot McConachie headed the plane down the north runway. There was a slight bump after the machine was a few hundred feet up, but from then on it was smooth sailing, as the pilot pointed the nose up for the dark, low-hanging clouds.

Higher and higher went the machine until at last we were sailing through the clouds. At about 10,000 feet, the slate gray mists were suddenly left behind and we were in a world of brilliant sunshine.

For half an hour the ship cruised along in a fairyland of sunshine and blue sky with white "mountains" beneath. Then Pilot McConachie pointed the nose down for a procedure landing.
